MRS. MORRISON AND HER RUINED FURNITURE
Mrs. Dorothy W. Morrison returned to her home in Rutland square and found her furniture piled in front of the house. Neighbors say the furniture was tossed from the window as the result of an ejectment notice. Picture shows furniture in front of house and inset of Mrs. Morrison.

Mrs. Dorothy W. Morrison, a widow, returned to her home at No. 23 Rutland square, South End, after a day of hard work, and found her furniture reposing in the street, ruined by the heaviest rainstorm of the year.

P. E. Richardson, a colored real estate agent, with offices at No. 538 Tremont street, it is alleged, had

3 SCHOONERS AWAY IN RACE FOR CUP AT GLOUCESTER

Gloucester, Aug. 30.—Driven by a brisk northwest breeze, three crack fishing schooners got away today to a fine start in the much-discussed 31½-mile race for the Lipton and Prentiss trophies.

To the accompaniment of horns, whistles and cheers from the fleet of pleasure craft near the starting line, the Henry Ford, Elizabeth Howard and Shamrock got under way without a hitch, when the final gun was fired at ten o'clock daylight time. The Mayflower, which came in yesterday with a full cargo of fish, was tied up at her dock, and evidenced no signs of activity.

Shortly before the start the breeze, which had been blowing ten knots, dropped to eight, but was still stiff enough to give the racing craft a good lift on the port tack as they headed for the line.

The race committee, which fixed the starting line of Eastern Point at 9:30 decided to send the fishermen to Milk Island, a run of seven miles due South, a reach seven miles up

Miss Emily Bell Declares Officer Hill Was Brutally Beaten in "Frameup"

A woman came forward today to help Lester D. Hill, suspended mounted patrolman, prove his charge that he was "framed" by Back Bay police instead of being drunk, disorderly and scantily attired early last Saturday, as charged.

She is Miss Emily Bell of No. 726 Commonwealth avenue.

She is Hill's fiancee.

Before her apartment house early Saturday Hill and fellow-policemen engaged in a violent scuffle, in which Hill was beaten and marked and then taken to the Back Bay station charged with drunkenness.

Hill says he has been "framed" because he waged war on bootleggers, and adds that the whole police department needs cleaning up. "Particularly the Back Bay crowd," he adds.

HILL TELLS OWN STORY

He has retained John P. Feeney as counsel.

When he goes on trial before Police Commissioner Wilson some time this week Miss Bell will be at his side.

"I will tell everything I know," said Miss Bell today, "and I know a lot. I will tell how Lester was brutally beaten as he was bidding me good-night out on the sidewalk. He was beaten by fellow officers as he was about to step into his automobile."

Hill who has been cited for bravery and fought overseas in the war gave the AMERICAN today the only story he has given the press in Boston of what happened early Saturday on Commonwealth avenue. He said:

WAS OFF DUTY

"On the morning in question I checked off duty as usual. They claim that my horse was left at some other place. It was not. The checking out records at police station will not lie.

"I then called on my fiancee, Miss Bell, and was leaving the apartment block in which she lives when the first attack occurred. She came down with me to say good night and walked to the sidewalk with me. I was fully clothed, contrary to what has been charged.

"There I saw four brother with

Athens Balks at Demands From Rome Following Assassinations in Albania

London, Aug. 30 (I.N.S.).—The Italian fleet at Taranto has been ordered to clear for action and a movement against Greece may take place any moment, said a Milan dispatch to the Evening News.

Paris, Aug. 30 (I.N.S.).—Secret orders have been issued concentrating the Italian fleet at Taranto for a possible demonstration against Greece, said a dispatch from Turin today. Troop concentrations are reported from the interior of Italy. A strict censorship has been established.

Italy's Ultimatum Is Like That Of Austria in 1914

London, Aug. 30 (I.N.S.).—"We cannot witness without protest this high-handed diplomacy which painfully reminds us of the action taken by Austria after the murder at Sarajevo in 1914," said the Star today commenting upon the Italian ultimatum to Greece.

"It is an ominous precedent. We appeal to the sober second thought of the Italian people. If they fail to check Mussolini in his headlong career of militarism, it will be up to the League of Nations to intervene."

CABLES FREE FROM CUBAN CENSORS

New York, Aug. 30.—Cablegrams passing through the Cuban offices of the Commercial Cable Company will not be subjected to censorship by the Cuban government, according to a late message received at the company's New York offices. It has been reported all cablegrams passing through Cuba would be subjected to government scrutiny. "The present measure should not be considered as censorship," the message stated, "but merely as observation limited to messages of political significance. Commercial messages, code or otherwise will not be interfered with."

SARGENT DIED FOR LOVE OF ACTRESS

New York, Aug. 30.—Despair at the hopelessness of an old love for Mary Anderson, the famous actress, who for years has been the wife of Antonio Fernando de Navarro in England, won the name of "woman hater" for Franklin H. Sargent, president of the American Academy of Dramatic Art, and drove him to commit suicide at Plattsburg, N. Y.,

STORM FOILS GETAWAY OF DEER ISLAND PRISONER

Elman Bibby, serving a sentence of one year at Deer Island, made an unsuccessful attempt to escape during the storm last night. It was learned today.

Bibby slipped from the lineup after supper, and secreted himself until dark, with the intention of swimming Shirley Gut to Winthrop.

The storm prevented him from making the attempt until after his absence was discovered.

A ring of guards was thrown around the island, and a search revealed Bibby crouching in the piggery. A painter by trade, he was convicted of larceny.

DASHED INTO PATROL WAGON; YES, IT WAS SAD MISTAKE

Their touring car collided with the patrol wagon at Lawrence and Park streets. They were arrested. Police found 4 gallons of alcohol in the machine, whereupon Bab and Car chanted as above while being led to court to be arraigned for violating the federal prohibition laws.

SEVERAL LEADING MEN INVOLVED

Providence, R. I., August 30.—A municipal scandal, involving a dozen well known political and business factors of this city, is expected to follow the shooting of Ernest R. Smith, head of the Robert E. Smith Coal Company.

Smith was shot by a woman in the traffic tunnel under the Union Station. He told the police that the woman, after shooting him, cried: "My God, I've shot the wrong man."

The police do not believe the story.

Investigation disclosed that Smith had been living a dual life, and that the woman the police seek to question is a fashionable modiste, Blanche Bates, known as "the best dressed woman in Providence." She rose to her position in five years from a lowly job in a candy factory.

Smith obstinately sticks to his story.

But the police have found that several other men were interested in the Bates woman, whose real name is Agatha Dorsch. She was divorced from John Dorsch, a Paw-tucket fireman, some eight years ago.

The list of those whose interest pared.

"They knocked out a tooth, bladed my eye, bruised and battered me and lacerated my right hand from blows on the outside. I had no chance against four men. It was without reason or cause that I knocked off.

"Now they are charging me with disturbing the peace. Of course, I was disturbing nobody. I was in my own room and was about to go to bed. I was undressed, I had not even had a drink. I have always been a total abstainer. I have always given my self a clear head on

"I have been told by other officers that I must be short prisoners to succeed. I never did. While I am a police officer I will be a real police officer, but not a cowardly one.

"The only reason I can ascribe to the action of the others is jealousy."

FIANCEE AROUSED

Miss Bell is a stenographer at the Parker House. In an altercation between Miss Bell and Officer Sullivan, Miss Bell is said to have struck the officer in the face. Sullivan and Foley took out marriage intentions here in July.

"I do not wish to discuss the case in detail," she said, "but I will say that I will fight this thing out for Emily."

Miss Bell came down with him to say good-night and I saw the four policemen attack him and give him a terrible beating. He was not intoxicated and it was an unexplainable act.

When he has his hearing I will tell the truth. He certainly got anything but a fair deal. It is unbelievable that other officers should have done this."

Bell's hearing is set for Friday, but it is understood it will be continued for one week.

BEATEN IN WAGON

"At a quarter past four that morning the same four officers returned," he continued. "I was lying on a bed with my shoes off, but all other clothing on but my coat. I was still dazed from the beating.

"They frightened Miss Bell into opening the door of the suite to them. That was the only mistake made. She feared they were going to break it in from their talk.

"They forced me to get up and go to the station, after telephoning for the wagon.

"Then came the second beating. On the way to the station, in the wagon, they beat me severely again. It was the same four officers I have already named.

BLAMES JEALOUSY

At the station they had Dr. Tilton come and look me over, but he gave no treatment. They made me sign a paper in blank. They said to me to go to bed and stop talking and I did. I was undressed, I had not even had a drink. I have always been a total abstainer. I have always given myself a clear head on not disposed to accept the humiliating conditions imposed by the Italian government in its note demanding satisfaction for the killing of the five Italian members of the Greco-Albanian frontier delimitation mission.

The Italian note demanded that the Greeks pay an indemnity of 50,000,000 lire, salute the Italian fleet and punish the Greeks responsible for the assassinations. An answer was required within twenty-four hours.

In the event a deadlock is resulted in settling the affair, Greece, it is understood, will propose to submit the question to the League of Nations.

The Greek government is disposed to express its profound sorrow over the massacre and to indemnify the families of the Italian officials who were murdered on Greek territory.

London, Aug. 30.—Demonstrations against Greeks are reported from all parts of Italy, says a Central News dispatch from Rome, but so far as is known no acts of violence have occurred.

SARGENT DIED HEART-BROKEN

on Wednesday, in the opinion of David Belasco.

Three times Sargent had attempted suicide, said Belasco. Only a month ago Sargent's friends prevented the last attempt.

Belasco told this tragic story of Franklin Sargent was one of the greatest idealists in the world. He lived up to his ideals and struggles for the production of his dreams truly and nobly, and he died of a broken heart and disappointment.

"He was one of the finest men I have ever known. His academy should have been endowed and made one of the great institutions of this country.

"I had promised to give Mr. Sargent one day a month of my time during the following season. When I talked with him a few weeks ago I saw he was downcast and sad. I asked him what the matter was, and he only replied:

THIRD SUICIDE BEFORE.

"'Oh, David!'

"It was a cry as if of despair. I know it. I had heard it before. Three times before this he had attempted suicide. I persuaded him against taking his life a month ago.

"Years ago Sargent had a love affair that has since saddened his entire life. His loved Mary Anderson, who has since married and lived in London in retirement from the stage. Sargent adored her. He taught her how to act. He was engaged to Mary for a long time.

"There was a sudden end to the love affair and I think they never saw each other again. That was years ago, but ever since then Sargent has been a changed man. He shrank from women, and became famous among his friends as a woman hater.

"He comes from one of the finest families in Boston, and was brought up in Italy. He was a Harvard graduate. He loved the theatre and spent his life working for it."

STARS AMONG HIS FRIENDS.

Delmonnoffee and Fishel, No. 1482 Broadway, announced that Mr. Sargent made a will less than a year ago.

On the day of his death he arrived at the Hotel Witherill in Plattsburg about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. He registered and then set about preparing for his death. He first went to the Surrogate's office and filed a codicil to his will. The codicil was a gift of his Summer home in the Adirondacks and twenty-five shares of American Telephone and Telegraph stock valued at about $3,000, to his faithful colored housekeeper, Sadie Walker.

Benjamin Roeder, Mr. Belasco's business manager, and an officer of Sargent School, is the executor. He said there has never been a better school year than the present one.

Mr. Sargent was a distinguished stage manager before he founded the school in 1884. Daniel Frohman, John Drew and Augustus Thomas were among his closest friends.

E. H. Sargent of No. 27 Upland road, Lexington, Mass., a nephew, and Mrs. Dickinson, Kenosha, Wis., a half-sister, are the only relatives.

The body will be brought to New York tomorrow and will rest at Campbell's Funeral Church. It is probable the burial will be at Jamaica Plain, Mass., with his mother and father.

over No. 1 course, a five mile beat the bay, a boat seven miles back to Milk Island, and a run to the finish.

The Henry Ford, Captain Clayton Morrissey, was the first of the trio to poke her nose around Eastern Point, coming down the harbor under foresail and jumbo.

She sent up her mainsail while jogging about the whistling buoy, and then broke out her jib and jib topsail.

The Elizabeth Howard came down under full sail, with the Shamrock not far behind, standing over toward Norman's Woe while getting up her kites. Captain Ben Pine of the Howard and Captain Marty Welch of the Shamrock, seemed undisturbed by the lightness of the breeze.

Shortly after the second gun, at 9:45, all three boats came up to the race committee for final instructions. All were then under full sail and presented an attractive picture to the thousands of spectators in boats and along shore. The fishermen heeled well over the breeze, dividing attention with several coasters scudding into the bay, and a flotilla of yachts from Marblehead, some of them with racks tied in.

CROSS LINE WITH RUSH.

Captain Marty Welch won the honors at the start, berthing the Shamrock 200 yards away. He laid to until a minute before the starting gun and then filled away, crossing near the windward with a rush. Captain Morrissey stood a fine chance of nosing out the new racer, but after crossing her bow, the Ford bore away and followed across the line.

The Howard rushed the line, and for her impatience was forced to haul back and follow the Ford. The official starting times were Shamrock 10:30; Ford 10:31; Howard 10:31:55

The weather, in cogtrast to conditions on Monday, when the race was originally scheduled, was very clear and a fine view of the entire course was afforded the spectators.

Sir Thomas Lipton, donor of the cup which, with a cash prize of $1000 will go to the winner, was forced to leave Gloucester without witnessing the race. He had been the guest of Colonel J. W. Prentiss, who presented another cup, which with $800 was the second prize. Third place carries a cash prize of $800.

Can't Insure Genius Typewriters and Cement Mysterious Cancer If a Man Bites a Dog

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, by Star Company

DR. BANTING, discoverer of insulin that controls diabetes, is insured for $5,000,000. The Rockefeller Foundation, anxious to use and develop Dr. Banting's genius, is said to have paid for the insurance. That sounds improbable. Rockefellers, father and son, know that one thing money can't buy, or make up for, is GENIUS.

TWO GREAT ANNIVERSARIES approach. Fifty years ago, on September 12, the typewriting machine began its career, saving time, increasing efficiency and, most important of all, introducing into business the good influence of hundreds of thousands of women. That anniversary will be celebrated at Ilion, N. Y., by Mr. H. L. Winchell and others.

Fifty years ago America began the manufacture of Portland cement, which is, to building, what the typewriter is to business. For the first ten years this country made only 76,000 sacks of cement annually. Last year the country used 470,000,000 sacks, and American plants now possess a capacity of 600,000,000 sacks.

DEATHS FROM CANCER are three times as numerous today as they were fifty years ago, and are increasing. What is worse, science knows nothing about cancer. It plants a cancer in the body of a mouse, sees the cancer grow to be three times as big as the mouse on which it lives, and knows nothing about the disease or its cure.

THAT'S THE BAD NEWS from the doctors. The good news is that women in this country are growing taller, and suffer less and less from a disease with a long name that means poverty of the blood, anemia, that has made so many lives miserable and deaths premature.

"A DOG BITING a man is not news. A man biting a dog IS news."

Amos Cummins said it. A woman sticking to her son through poverty, misfortune, evil conduct is not news.

But Mrs. Simis shot her nineteen-year-old son, an idler and dishonored, "to save his soul." That's news. The Chicago police said they never heard of such a thing.

BEHOLD AN interesting international contest on the bounding deep! The United States Leviathan raced with British ship Majestic. Leviathan won and America slaps her chest proudly.

Both ships are German, built by Germans. The Leviathan was the Vaterland and the Majestic was the Bismarck.

That contest between England and America must amuse the Germans if they have time for being amused.

IT ISN'T LIKELY, however, that Germany feels like laughing at anything, just now. Her money fell absolutely into the sub-cellar yesterday—a million marks sold for 10 cents, and the interest rate, at conservative German banks, is 24 per cent. on your balance.

OVER HERE, financially speaking, we are cheerful, stocks up a little more, "bonds firm," call money 5½ per cent., time loans much cheaper, exports of manufactured articles increasing. He hath not dealt so with any nation; and as for His judgments, they have not known them. PRAISE YE THE LORD.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE advises Southern newspaper publishers to urge "unhesitating obedience to legislative action." Sound advice, but while obeying the law, every citizen has the right to work for change if he doesn't approve the law. Which darkens and burning, torture of witnesses, human slavery, were all once lawful. Opposition, questioning makes better civilization, better laws. When England's Parliament forbade free publishing of books, Milton protested his "Areopagitica" in defiance, and killed the stupid law. Sometimes resistance is useful and necessary. Of the "Areopagitica," Hallam said, "An intense love of liberty and truth glows through it." That's more important sometimes than unreasoning submission to unreasonable law.

OFFICERS STIRRED BY CROWLEY

Suspicious Persons Taken in as soon as Coppers Are Told to Go to Work

Failure of police of the City Hall avenue station to catch the drug store safe crackers operating in the Epstein company's store close by the station after an American reporter had given an alarm so stirred the ire of Superintendent Michael H. Crowley he has ordered Boston cleaned up.

In a general order read at all police stations the "Big Chief" paid particular attention to the Epstein frustrated burglary, notifying police that descriptions of the two safe-crackers seen then and previously in a Liggett Back Bay store proved that a gang was at work in the city.

"Get this gang, and get it quickly," was the superintendent's terse order.

He also ordered that police arrest all suspicious characters, but persons with suspicious looking handles, pay particular attention to scoleroom and drug store loungers and to look for guns on foreigners.

"There has been an influx of thieves and general bad men into Boston from other cities," wrote Superintendent Crowley. "These men must be driven out immediately. Boston must be cleaned up."

The order, read at every station, resulted in eleven over-night arrests of suspicious persons. Eleven were taken in the Back Bay, among them three New York foreigners found with loose diamonds in their possession which are believed to have been stolen. They were in a motor car when arrested at Massachusetts and Huntington avenues.

The finding of an empty jewelry tray in the furnace room of the building at No. 301 Washington street, South End, by a janitor, led to the discovery of a jewelry robbery. The American Supply Company was burglarized overnight and ten watches stolen. Value $200.

COP NABS SIX MEN BY USING DIPLOMACY

Worcester, Aug. 30.—By using a threatening club and a little diplomacy, Patrolman Walter O'Day was enabled to clean up an entire gang in the Summer street district, and deliver them all at Station 1 in one load. Four, Maurice Clancy, 35 years old, James Roan, 39, John Hendrickson, 38, and Thomas J. O'Connor, 40, are charged with being drunk and John J. Rosenblan, 28, Daniel Doyle, 34, with trespassing.

OBSERVE OLD HOME DA YAT ASHBURNHAM

Ashburnham, Aug. 30.—Six thousand guests and former residents returned here for the observance of Old Home Day, in addition to a mammoth town picnic dinner, speaking and field sports, the visitors and villagers were entertained by a detachment of the 13th Infantry from Camp Devens which gave an exhibition drill, and by the 13th Infantry Band.

MUST FEED HORSE PAPYRUS ON U. S. GRAIN

London, Aug. 30.—A queer situation in regard to the shipment of the exact English three-year-old Papyrus, who is to race an American rival at Belmont Park, New York, in October has developed. American law does not allow a horse to be landed in America who has not been fed on American grain on the way over. So consider for the trip is to be sent here from America.

Dual Life Revealed in Shooting Case

Modiste Sought in Attack Made on Rich Providence Man

MODISTE'S NEW HOME NEAR THAT OF SMITH

Photo of the $30,000 home which Agatha Blanche Bates is erecting in Grotto avenue only two blocks away from the mansion of Ernest R. Smith at No. 39 Presidents avenue in the exclusive East Side of Providence, seen in photo in upper right. The fashionable modiste is said to owe her rise to the patronage of the wealthy married man and the police believe that she is the key to the mystery of his being shot.

Mrs. Ernest R. Smith declares he was shot at the Traffic tunnel under the Union Station at Providence. According to his story when he was shot by a woman with wealthy coal dealer was leaning over the rear of his automobile work is discredited by the police, known to him. She exclaimed that she had shot the wrong man according to Smith, who drove to his office and was then removed to the hospital.

in Blanche Bates extended beyond patronage at her fashionable shop is growing.

One man—a druggist in East Providence—has told the police that Blanche Bates ruined his life and his business, and that he is prepared to leave the State as the result of his association with her.

The wounded coal dealer is said to have had a violent quarrel with Miss Bates less than a week ago.

The basis of this quarrel, it is said, was Smith's jealousy of a young man of Providence—a theatre ticket agent—to whom Miss Bates was showing marked favor. It seemed to be another case of the heavy-sugar guy versus the poor lover, with the poor lover getting all the breaks.

The wealthy admirers of Miss Bates, the police say, are men of wealth and high social standing in Providence.

NEW MYSTERY IN CASE.

Another mystery was added to the case by a check-up of Smith's statement to the effect that after he had been shot he had driven his car to his office.

It is now known that he was taken to his office by Earl Jennings, an [illegible]. It was Mr. Jennings who drove Smith to the Rhode Island Hospital. How Jennings happened to be on the spot is not known, nor is it known whether he figures in the case.

But at the Smith office it was said that Jennings was off on a vacation. The Bates girl, too, is away on a vacation, but the police expect her return today.

INVESTIGATE GIRL.

They are going to look into the sources of the girl's amazing rise in prosperity during the past five years.

At present the police say, a $30,000 home is being erected for her on Grotto avenue, in the exclusive East Side section of the city, only two blocks distant from the palatial mansion at No. 89 President avenue, occupied by Smith and his wife.

Of the many clews and theories that police have been considering since the shooting, they regard as the most significant the discovery that Smith and the Bates woman had quarreled.

The police learned that Smith met the girl two years ago when she was a counter girl in the candy shop of J. Fred Gibson at Exchange place and Exchange street. The coal magnate, the police allege, before long had set her in business as a modiste in a shop on the fifth floor of the Woolworth Building at Westminster and Dorrance streets.

SMITH STICKS TO STORY.

Smith, in a critical condition at the Rhode Island Hospital, with a bullet in his abdomen, still clings to his first explanation of the shooting, which was to the effect that he had been shot down as he bent over his automobile by a short, stocky, fair girl, who had exclaimed as she caught a glimpse of the face of her victim:

"My God, the wrong man."

The first knowledge that Smith had been shot came to the police when authorities of the hospital informed them of his arrival at the hospital. Following the shooting, Smith proceeded to the offices of the coal company, of which he is head, and bursting into the building announced to employes that he had been shot.

NO ONE HEARD SHOT.

He was then taken in the hospital in an ambulance. When the police learned of the shooting they arrived at the hospital and questioned Smith. Upon hearing his story that he had been shot by a woman, a squad of police were rushed to the tunnel under the Union station where the shooting is supposed to have taken place. There the police failed to find anyone who had heard a shot or had seen anything of Smith or his girl assailant, as he described her.

Three wealthy friends of Blanche Bates, whom the police want to question, are an agent for a large cotton mill, a young New York sales man and a local oil dealer.

Mrs. Ernest R. Smith, wife of the wounded man, has also been questioned by the police. She, however, expressed complete ignorance of her husband's alleged dual life.

The druggist victim of the alleged siren, when questioned by police, said:

WRECKED HIS LIFE.

"She wrecked my life. I took her out of the gutter when she was some and penniless. When she and her husband were divorced I took her and her son into my home. I am a widower. I kept her in my home for five years. I dressed her in the best fashion possible for a man of my means.

"We lived happily for five years. She was faithful and looked after my business just as if she was my own wife. Finally her passion for fine clothing was the undoing of our blissful existence. One day she told me she would leave me to go to work in a downtown store. I remonstrated, but in vain.

CLOTHES HER PASSION.

"I told her that if she went to work in the store she would soon be lost to me as she would there meet admirers far more wealthy than was I.

"She replied to my pleas by saying 'I must have fine clothes. I love them. Some day my passion for finery will bring my death. But I am going to play the game for all that is in it.'

"So she left my home. She even influenced me to take my own meals there and to place it in the apartment.

"Before long she rose to be regarded as the best dressed woman in town. She flashed expensive jewelry and high powered motor cars, and now a palatial house is being built for her. My fears came true.

"I am going to sell my store and leave the State to try and forget the woman who has been my undoing."

BANKER'S WIFE, ILL, ENDS LIFE WITH GAS

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Mitchell, wife of Ernest G. Mitchell, No. 2 Prospect avenue, Swampscott, former president of the State National Bank in Lynn, committed suicide by inhaling illuminating gas, as her husband played golf.

She left two notes, one of them addressed to her husband, read:

"I am discouraged with life, owing to my ill health. I cannot bear it any longer. I am going to end it all now."

Elizabeth.

Another note was addressed to her sister, Mrs. Charles Little, No. 15 Hollingsworth street, Lynn.

Leonard Barnes, a neighbor, smelled gas while mowing a lawn, broke down the door and went to the Mitchell home to investigate. Peering through a kitchen window, he saw Mrs. Mitchell lying on the floor near the kitchen range.

PHYSICIAN SUMMONED.

Rushing into the house he carried Mrs. Mitchell in the open air, turned off one partially opened gas cock, and opened up the house. He then notified Patrolman John Kennedy of the Swampscott police, who summoned Dr. Grimes.

Dr. Grimes worked over the prostrate woman with a pulmotor for more than two hours before pronouncing her dead.

Mr. Mitchell was golfing at the Danvers Country Club at the time of the tragedy and could not be reached for several hours. The two children, Stewart, 18 years old and Dorothy, 14 years old, were not at home at the time.

According to Dr. Grimes, Mrs. Mitchell probably turned on all the gas cocks on the stove and, when at most overcome, lost her nerve and started to turn them off. Apparently she had turned off all except one, when she fell unconscious to the floor. Mrs. Mitchell was forty years old.

Ernest G. Mitchell, associate of the dead woman, failed in contesting to the presidency of the State National Bank of Lynn at the time the Cosmopolitan Trust Company in Boston was closed, during the Ponzi bubble, because of alleged indiscreet loans by the State National to the Cosmopolitan.

Since that time Mr. Mitchell has been engaged in real estate operations.

Arthur Bower.

ARREST IS NEAR IN MURDER OF POLICEMAN

An arrest which it is expected will solve the murder of Patrolman Arthur Bower of Methuen is planned by the authorities, it was learned today.

The suspect is a Lowell police sergeant, who, the police say, knows the slayer of the Methuen officer, shot to death while on duty on the Lowell-Lawrence boulevard Aug. 1.

The man is the owner of the given from the running board of which Bower was tumbled into the road by a fusillade of shots while attempting to place the operator under arrest.

It has been learned that three men are hiding in a camp near Lowell, one of them suffering from a bullet wound in one hand. This wound has been treated, it is believed, by the professional man, although he is not a physician.

It is thought this course was taken to keep the wounded man away from hospitals and physicians who would notify the police.

State police, assured by the offer of a reward of $1,000, made by the Town of Methuen, are making every effort to locate this camp and its three inhabitants.

With the Lowell police, they are also keeping the professional man under surveillance. It is planned to arrest him on the charge of murder, on the theory he will tell all he knows to save himself.

The man is believed to have loaned his car on the night of the shooting to someone with whom he was well acquainted. After the murder, either to cover himself, or through fear, he failed to make any statement. Later, when the murderer or murderers took refuge in the camp, they communicated with the professional man and obtained his aid.

BOY FALLS 30 FEET FROM TOP OF TREE

George Carroll, eleven years of age, of No. 153 Hampshire street, Cambridge, is on the danger list in Cambridge City Hospital with injuries received when he fell from the top of a 30 foot tree to the sidewalk. The lad had been warned by his mother on several occasions not to climb trees.

WRECKER RUN OUT FOR FRAUD

Changes His Nationality and is Caught in Swindling Scheme

Mexico City, Aug. 30.—Joseph Biata, alias Joseph Marcino, who is now in jail in Laredo charged with the perpetration of bank frauds in Chicago and Warren, Mass., did not surrender to the American officers because he had been the victim of extortion here, but was expelled as a pernicious foreigner, the Mexico City police said today.

When Biata was taken into custody at Laredo it asserted that Mexican officials, supported by certain American financial interests, had made it impossible for him to continue in business in the capital and that he had finally surrendered. The police, however, told a different story. They said Biata's departure was the result of a varied business career here, in the course of which he fraudulently changed from American to Mexican citizenship.

Arriving in Mexico City early this year, the police said Biata, alias Batiante and Marchieo assumed the name of Vincenzo Traducio, asserting that he came from a noble Italian family. He disappeared, the officers recalled, when the Italian consul exposed him, but reappeared shortly afterward with Mexican citizenship papers and under the name of Pablo Gomez assumed control of an alcohol factory.

He ran afoul of the internal revenue department when accused of using funds amounting to 200,000 pesos, the police declared, and thus resulted in an embargo on his factory and his expulsion from the country.

JAMAICA PLAIN MAN HELD FOR LOTTERY

Stoughton, Aug. 30.—On charges of promoting a lottery and operating gaming devices in his possession, William Burt of No. 139 Centre street, Jamaica Plain, was arrested at Monks Field.

Lieutenant Charles T. Beaupre of the state police claims he was extensive gambling and "people coming miles by the wholesale."

WIFE REFUSES TO PROSECUTE ELOPER

Lawrence, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Joseph Perrotta refused to testify against her eloping husband in court here today. Judge J. J. Mahoney said: "When you come for a warrant again for your husband you won't in as successful. In every used case offered on the witness stand today you have perjured yourself." Perrotta denied stealing $2,000, the "other woman" who took $2,000, nor $600 of his savings, when she fled.

LYNN POLICE SEEK MISSING STATE WARD

Lynn police have been asked to aid in the search of Mary Sullivan, sixteen year old State ward, who disappeared from the home of her benefactor, Mrs. Helen McGee, No. 6 Ashland street, Monday night. Mrs. McGee said the girl made her escape from the cellar window.

CHILD AUTO DEATH TOLL IN STATE REACHES 140

The child auto death toll in Massachusetts reached 140 since December 1, 1922, with the death of Arthur Alard, 15 years old, of Washington street, South Attleboro, who was crushed between a freight car and an auto truck at Adamsdale station. Medical Examiner Dr. C. S. Holden reported death as accidental. Ten-year-old Frederick Leslie, of Mills street, Newton, was seriously injured when knocked down by a machine driven by Elizabeth Walker of No. 20 Hereford street, Back Bay, at Irving street and Commonwealth avenue, Newton.

JILTED SUITOR BITES WOMAN'S NOSE

New York, Aug. 30.—Felix Cozen of White Plains, N. Y., was held by Judge Thompson in Newcastle on a charge of mayhem, brought by Mrs. Juanita B. Levy, who owns a farm near the town. She said that Cozen had formerly been one of her laborers and that he turned up again to talk to her. He suddenly began to make love to her, she said, and when she tried to send him away, he seized her.

"I'll fix you so no other man will ever look at you," she quoted him as saying. With that he seized the end of her nose in his teeth and bit off about a half inch of the nose. A doctor sewed the piece back on, but said he could not tell whether or not she would be disfigured.

LAWYER'S WIFE ACTS TO VOID HIS DIVORCE

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Melville R. Thomson has filed a motion here to have her husband's divorce decree vacated. In 1914, soon after her marriage, she drew up a "bride's decalogue," which she and he agreed to observe.

Mrs. Melville R. Thomson

Thomson, she charges through her attorney, violated the agreement. Among other things, the decalogue stated a husband should have control of the home; the wife should cook tasty and appetizing meals, and should trust her husband unquestionimarly.

A few weeks ago Judge Sabath granted Thomson, an attorney, a divorce when he was told that Mrs. Thomson had hit her husband on the jaw, threw a bowl of creamed spuds on him and treated him in an unladylike manner.

ACTRESS JOINS HUNT FOR LOST WOMAN OF 90

Stamford, Ct., Aug. 30 (U.S.)—Hundreds of Boy Scouts will start out tomorrow at daylight to sweep the woods near East Hunting Ridge in a search for ninety-year-old Mrs. Margaret Bouton, missing since Sunday.

Peggy Wood.

Peggy Wood, the actress, has offered the assistance of her farm employes in the search.

The aged woman left the home of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Carrie Brown, Saturday for her daily walk, which she said kept her young. When she did not return at dark Mrs. Brown decided she had stopped at a neighbor's for the night.

Sunday Mrs. Brown inquired of all the neighbors, but none had seen the corn-cutting hiker, and the police were notified. There are few houses and miles of heavy woodland in the section where Mrs. Bouton was last seen.

HUB TAX RATE EXPECTED TO BE SAME AS LAST YEAR

Boston's tax rate, which was to be announced two weeks ago, is now expected to be ready for the public some time this week. That the assessors are having a hard time to keep the rate down to $24.70, the figures of last year, is known. When the first balance of the books was made the rate was said to be far from what was expected. Many revisions have since been made in valuations of the downtown section, where the largest increases could be obtained. It is generally believed that the 1923 tax rate will be the same as last year, with a possibility of an increase of thirty cents.

FOOD QUERY DEPARTMENT

YOUR FOOD PURCHASING DIFFICULTIES SOLVED

A THURSDAY FEATURE

Are you at a loss as to where you can secure some particular brand or kind of foodstuffs? If so, write the Boston American Food Query Editor. We will answer your inquiry in these columns as quickly as possible.

Food Query Editor:

Would you kindly tell me where I can buy Gorton's flaked cod put up in cans packed to the Gloucester fishermen. I used to get it at the army stores, but have been unable to get it since.

MRS. A. C.

Roxbury, Mass.

You can secure Gorton's flake fish put up in seven-ounce cans at any of the S. S. Pierce or Atlantic & Pacific chain stores.

Food Query Editor:

Although you only say food should be sterile enough if you can tell me where you can get the five-gallon cans of kerosene?

E. W.

South End, Boston, Mass.

Have made inquiry about the five-gallon can of kerosene and find that all the oil companies have the same service mainly one-gallon cans. Would suggest you, however, taking a five-gallon can to some hardware store and the Standard Oil Co., or any other oil company would be glad to fill same for you as required.

Food Query Editor:

Please give me your idea of the best preparation for making beer at home. Thanking you in advance I am

H. C.

Roxbury, Mass.

Understand that Haffenreffer & Co., Boston, Mass., turn out a preparation call "Pick", which makes very good beer.

Food Query Editor:

Have you ever heard of the Farm House brand sweet mixed pickles? This brand of pickles is put up by Reid, Murdock & Co., Chicago, Ill. I have used this brand for a number of years and they are just like the old fashioned pickles my mother used to put up. I can get them in New York, but have not been able to locate a store carrying them here in Boston. Thought perhaps you might be able to help me through your column.

MISS E. J. M.

Newton, Mass.

You can purchase the Farm House brand of sweet mixed pickles, sweet relish and sweet and sour gherkins put up in mixed pickles at Houghton & Dutton Grocery Department.

Food Query Editor:

Do you know of a store carrying Red Crown brand of Deviled meats put up in small 2-oz. or 3½-ounce glass jars. Also Red Crown brand of sliced lamb's tongue put up in small glass jars. I have had my husband and myself and he eats little of the above food and these small jars are just fine for us. Would like to know where this brand of goods is put up and where the factory is located.

MRS. G. B.

Cambridge, Mass.

Red Crown brand of canned meats are put up by the Acme Packing Co., of Chicago. Their factory is at Green Bay, Wis. You can purchase their sliced lamb's tongue at any of the Economy Grocery Stores and their deviled meats in glass jars at the Manhattan Market, Cambridge, or Weston & Thurston, New Faneuil Hall Market.

Food Query Editor:

Have been reading your column for the past three weeks and find it very interesting and helpful. Wonder if you could tell me where one could secure Papoy's Guava jelly put up in glass jars? I prefer this brand as it is a very much thinner jelly than any of the jelly I have ever had. Would also like to know just what size jars this product comes in?

MRS. W. G. H.

Somerville, Mass.

You can purchase Papoy's Guava jelly put up by the East Coast Preserving Co., of Daytona, Fla., at John Gilbert, Jr., Co., No. 126 Boylston St. This jelly is put up in 10-oz. and a half and ten-ounce glass jars.

REVEALS PLAN TO SHOOT MAN AND HERSELF

Providence, R. I., Aug. 30—Josephine Fondi, twenty-three years old, admitted to police that she had gone armed yesterday to kill Antonio Versaille, but when confronted by Versaille she recanted and decided to kill herself. Versaille and himself became reconciled in the Grosvenor Building corridor today and her story of love and jealousy ended.

She claims to have now "patched up" everything with "Joe."

Miss Fondi, arrested and released after Versaille conferred with police officials, although she had bought a revolver and cartridges, was found in the Grosvenor Building corridor today and her story of love and jealousy ended.

She claims to have now "patched up" everything with "Joe."

Miss Fondi, arrested and released after Versaille conferred with police officials, although she had bought a revolver and cartridges, was found in the Grosvenor Building corridor today and her story of love and jealousy ended.

She claims to have now "patched up" everything with "Joe."

"You Versaille won't marry me, so everything is fixed up between us," Miss Fondi said. "He won't marry me because I'm divorced. I got my divorce as a result of things he told me about my husband, but that makes no difference to him.

"I'm satisfied with our arrangement that if he ever does marry another girl—"

With her fingernails and thumb she made a gesture, imitating the shooting of a revolver, in Italian, she said: I'll shoot."

Handsomely dressed in green, her dark hair and eyes offsetting her pale complexion, Miss Fondi told her story while seated in the kitchen in a friend's house in the Italian quarter on Federal Hill.

PLANNED TO SHOOT.

"I planned to shoot Joseph Versaille because he told many untrue things about me," she said. "Long ago I became fonds of him because of his regard for another girl. It was then I told the true story of our romance, which angered him so that he longed to—"

"My friends come to me and said he was saying wicked things. I asked a woman friend to call him on the telephone and take him to task for that. I listened in. Instead of apologizing or denying, he told her what he said he thought about me. It wasn't very nice.

REASON TO FEAR.

"Then I took my revolver, one that I have always had near at hand, and went downtown. I had reason to fear him. People told me he had tried to get a woman to get rid of me. So I could see no other way than to kill the both of us.

"When he saw what I intended to do he came back to me and we are going to go along in the same old ways."

Miss Fondi is well known in the Italian district. Although handicapped by a hesitant use of English, she is well educated, and ambitious for her future. She has written poetry in her native tongue, some of it touching on her own romance.

Contemplated Crime

JOSEPHINE FONDI.

Girl of Providence Italian district is reconciled with State solon after threatening to kill him and herself.

50 NUNS IN PERIL IN CONVENT FIRE

Pittsburgh, Aug. 30—Fifty nuns had narrow escapes from death or injury today when fire burned the second and third stories of St. Mary's Convent, a four-story structure in North Canal street.

One of the nuns discovered the flames and sounded a gong. The occupants, several of whom were ill and had to be aided in escaping, took refuge first in nearby homes and later in a community house. The cause of the fire, which caused $40,000 damage, has not been determined.

STARVING BOYS ROB WOMAN OF PURSE

Driven to steal through hunger, two New Bedford youths snatched a purse from Miss Susan F. Chapin, of No. 155 Forest street, near the Public Library, Medford.

Miss Chapin screamed. Her cries attracted the attention of the driver of a bakery wagon, who chased and captured them.

Brought face to face with the victim, both young men confessed their guilt and pleaded for leniency, explaining that they were actually starved and had taken the money to buy food. Miss Chapin talked with the officers and the boys were released.

Hours later, the boys appeared at the station and gave their names. They said they were Antone Freitas, eighteen years old, and Antonio Teixeira, nineteen, both of Gillette street, New Bedford. Both were placed in a cell charged with larceny.

Woman Wins Delay in City Tax Sale of Property

A South Boston woman pleaded tearfully for a delay of two weeks when her property went under the hammer in the office of City Collector William M. McMorrow, in the largest taxtitle auction sale in the history of Boston.

She told Collector McMorrow that her husband had been out of work a long time, that her son was in a hospital, and that although the family had made desperate efforts, they had been unable to raise the money to meet the taxes. Through arrangement by the collector, the property was bid in temporarily.

A recent statute requires the city to collect all taxes in the year in which they are assessed, or sell the real estate at auction. Four thousand parcels, involving $500,000, were in the sale when the auction began.

QUICK WORK SAVED RESCUED BATHER

Miss Pauline Pritzer, of No. 99 Brookline avenue, Jamaica Plain, who with her would-be rescuer, Frank Foley, were saved from drowning at Nantasket, is recovering at a hotel. Physicians say she will be able to go home today. Medical Attendant W. W. Dow, who applied the prone system of resuscitation for half an hour before the girl was revived, saved her life, physicians say, the operation.

HALF OF MAN'S STOMACH CUT OUT; TO LIVE

By Universal Service

New York, Aug. 30—Despite the removal of the lower half of his stomach in the first operation of its kind ever performed, Samuel Malkheim, thirty-five years old, of Brooklyn, is thriving steadily on a liquid diet and will be able to take solid food in a week, according to Dr. Abraham Wilensky, chief of the surgical staff of the Brownsville and East New York Hospital, Brooklyn.

Dr. Wilensky performed the operation about five weeks ago with the assistance of Dr. Harry Koster and Dr. Charles Solomkin.

Malkheim had been suffering from an ulcerated condition of the stomach. About a year ago he went to the hospital and he was discharged as apparently cured after blood had been transfused. Five weeks ago there was a recurrence of the trouble and Dr. Reuben Finkelstein, stomach specialist and diagnostician, advised the operation.

LEGION GIVEN DORCHESTER WARD ROOM

Members of the Francis G. Kane Post, American Legion and the Women Auxiliary of Dorchester waited on Mayor Curley urging him to grant them the privilege of using for a headquarters the old city building in Francis G. Kane square.

To strengthen their case they were armed with pledge cards, as members of the "Massachusetts Liberal League, pledged to Mayor Curley for Governor." Most of the petitioners before leaving the mayor's office left behind a pledge card as a token of being "With Curley for Governor in 1924."

But they did not get the city building. In place of it the Mayor offered them the old ward room, on Meeting House Hill, opposite the historic Unitarian Church and directed the superintendent of public buildings to lease the building to the Legion for $1 a year, the Legion to provide its own heat and light.

For more than a year and a half the petitioners have been waiting for some action on the order of Councillor George F. Gilbody requesting the public works department turn over to the Legion the old city building in Kane square. Commissioner Rourke asserts his department needs the building.

PIRATE HORDE DRIVEN FROM GOLD SHIP

Universal Cable.

London, Aug. 30—Commander Guy Damant, directing the treasure hunt for the gold which was aboard the Laurentic when that ship was torpedoed off the Donegal coast in 1917, has virtually salvaged the whole of the millions of gold and silver bullion which was lost.

Commander Damant gives credit for the success of the treasure hunt to Professor Brooke, who with his electrical spear, or magic divining rod, not only located the treasure but went down and stayed more than an hour in the depths of the ocean to encourage the divers in the quest.

H. M. S. Racer, from which Commander Damant is conducting the search, had to be guarded during one period of the search by the crew from a destroyer with Maxim guns and rifles to beat off attempts of Irish irregulars who sought to seize the treasure recovered from the sea.

Commander Damant reports that on one day the decks of the Racer were virtually covered with gold, as they completed the greatest salvage operation in the history of the British navy. The gold and silver recovered is estimated to be worth $25,000,000.

The biggest treat of all at the picnic

A picnic just naturally suggests plump, meaty green olives. And in the open, the tangy flavor seems to have an added piquancy, an extra goodness imparted, perhaps, by outdoor appetites.

There are some wonderful picnic sandwiches which can be made with green olives. Chopped green olives and deviled eggs, for instance. There are green olive recipes which are delightful at home, too.

These recipes were originated by some of America's leading dietitians and are used in the foremost hotels. They are printed in a folder, which we will gladly send you on request. Simply write for it on a postal.

FREE STATE IS HEAVY LOSER IN LATE RETURNS

By DENIS O'CONNELL.
Universal Service Cable.

Dublin, Aug. 30.—A startling change in the complexion of returns from Monday's polling has put an entirely different face on the results of the election.

Early today, the Irish election, which judged by first returns, indicated a big sweep for the Free State government, seems to have entirely changed.

While the Free Staters will lead all other parties, and probably will have from 60 to 70 votes in the Dail, they may have to reply upon successful business, farmer, and independent candidates for a working majority.

Minister of Home Affairs O'Higgins in County Dublin, Ernest Blythe, Minister of Local Government in County Monaghan, and Dr. MacNeill, Minister of Education from the National University, all have safe leads.

DE VALERA SWEEPS CLARE.

The returns from North Mayo show a close fight between Joseph McGrath, Minister of Industry, Commerce and Labor, and P. J. Rutledge De Valera's Deputy Acting "President of the Republic."

The defeat in Louth of Cathal O'Shannon, Deputy Leader of the Laborites, was not expected. Neither was the success of Frank Aitken, the chief of staff of the Irregulars, who leads the poll in the same constituency.

In County Clare, De Valera headed the poll with a majority which carried in two other Republicans on the ticket.

De Valera polled 17,939 votes with Prof. McNeill next with 8,176. On the face of these returns it is likely that McNeil will choose to sit in the Dail as a representative of Clare, leaving his university seat for a government candidate.

MARY MacSWINEY GAINS.

Kildare has also gone against the government, as not a single Free Stater at present seems to stand a chance of being in the three highest candidates.

The Cork City Postmaster General C. J. Walsh, heads the poll with over double the quota necessary. Mary MacSwiney, on late returns, is 1,000 short of the quota, but will probably be elected.

The Republicans issued a statement declaring that when all the votes are counted they will have a much better showing than the early returns indicated.

F. D. ROOSEVELT IS GUEST OF HAMLINS

Mattapoisett, Aug. 30.—The list of notable guests at the Summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hamlin was increased with the arrival by yacht from Newport of Franklin D. Roosevelt, former Assistant Secretary of the Navy and candidate for Vice-President in the last national election.

F. D. Roosevelt

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the ex-President, arrived a day or two ago. With Mr. Roosevelt was Livingston Davis, a Harvard classmate, of Milton.

SOUTH END MAN DIES KNEELING IN PRAYER

Louis Le Merrer, forty-five years old, knelt down to say his prayers before retiring in his home at No. 82 Emerald street, South End, and relapsed into unconsciousness. The discovery was made by his son, John. Doctor Darronian of No. 46 Dover street examined the man and pronounced him dead.

Le Merrer, who had been ill for some time, probably died of natural causes. Medical Examiner Leary talked with the son, and Hubin Sims, of No. 77 Emerald street, the latter having placed the body on the bed. A sister, Nellie Russell, of No. 75 Blank street, New York city, was notified of the death.

Bride of War Hero

MILDRED WANAMAKER.

VET AND MISS WANAMAKER MARRIED

The love and happiness of a bride protected by a stalwart ex-service husband has descended on Mildred May Wanamaker of Wakefield and wiped out memories of her terrible experience of three years ago when she was attacked on her way to work by Frank S. Ramey, serving a sentence in State prison for the crime.

Charles C. Habblitz of Main street, East Saugus, was the groom at the wedding at the Wanamaker residence on Montrose avenue. The Rev. H. G. Soulsbyer of the Methodist Church performed the ceremony. Mrs. Charles O. Wanamaker, the bride's mother received the guests.

Miss Wanamaker was found unconscious by the roadside by a farmer. Feeling ran high in Wakefield and Ramey was several times in danger of lynching.

Miss Wanamaker never remembered any of the details of the attack or the identity of her assailant.

MRS. WILSON'S VISIT SURPRISES NEWPORT

Newport, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the former President, gave Newport society a thrill when she appeared unexpectedly at the horse show here, accompanied by Mrs. Hamilton Rogers, of Newport, whose guest she will be while in this city.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson

James W. Gerard, former United States Ambassador to Germany, one of the first to recognize Mrs. Wilson, rushed to her box to greet her. Other prominent persons were quick to pay their respects to her.

Mrs. Wilson has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Hamlin at Mattapoisett, Mass., and is expected to return there.

WOMAN'S SKULL BROKEN BY AUTO

An unidentified woman is at the City Hospital in a serious condition with a fracture of the skull as a result of being struck by an automobile on Massachusetts avenue, near Harrison avenue. She is about thirty-five years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighing 126 pounds and wearing dark clothes.

According to the police, the machine was owned and operated at the time by Arthur J. Morris, of No. 204 Erie street, Cambridge. He took the woman to the hospital and reported the accident. He said the woman ran across the street directly in front of his auto.

BAPTISTS ELECT HUB MAN PRESIDENT

Old Orchard, Me., Aug. 29.—Hurlburt Heath of Boston was elected president at the annual meeting in connection with the eighth annual session of the New England Baptist Conference and School of Methods. The meeting was attended by prominent members of the denomination from New England states.

DIES OF GAS FUMES AS SHE CURLS HAIR

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 30.—Miss Elizabeth Dettinger, twenty-two, daughter of the Rev. D. Wilson Dettinger, pastor of the Bethany Presbyterian church here, was found dead from gas poisoning in the kitchen of her home. Miss Dettinger had been curling her hair and it is believed that she caught the sleeve of her kimona in the flame, turning on the gas. She was an instructor in Spanish and Italian at Bryn Mawr College.

50 BRIDAL COUPLES TO MARCH IN PARADE

Rockville, Aug. 30.—A bridal division, with 50 brides, grooms and attending bridesmaids and ushers, will be one of the features of the automobile parade to be held here tomorrow in connection with the city's tercentenary observances. The bridal parties are scheduled to take photographs at sunrise and eight-thirty Labor Day morning, and the couples will be asked to drive immediately to Suffolk street where the parade will form.

STREETS FLOODED BY RAIN DELUGE

Boston and vicinity experienced the first downpour of the Summer when rain fell in such quantities that in many cases sewers were unable to take care of the water. Streets were flooded from curb to curb and street car and automobile traffic stopped. Both in Boston and Cambridge cellars and basements were reported the result. Many cellars in Somerville were flooded, when catch basins became clogged. The Boston & Maine trains were covered with six inches of water.

22 PLANES TO FLY AT AIR PORT OPENING

At least twenty navy planes, in addition to one plane of the Air Mail service, and the airplane carrier Langley will participate in the official opening of the Boston Air Port at East Boston, September 8, W. Irving Bullard, vice-president of the Merchants' National Bank, a member of the finance committee in charge of the official opening of the port, has announced that he will make his first flight from the air port on that day.

FREE HOSPITAL BEDS PLANNED FOR VETERANS

Washington, Aug. 30.—Free hospital treatment for America's 4,000,000 World War veterans would be furnished by the United States Veterans Bureau under a new plan evolved by Director Frank T. Hines, International News Service learned today.

The proposal, which contemplates throwing open government hospitals to all former soldiers who saw honorable service in the World War, will shortly be laid before President Coolidge for official approval.

If the President endorses the plan, Congress will be asked to enact the authorizing legislation at its next session. It is the plan of Director Hines to utilize all space in government institutions by caring for ex-service men who fall sick whether or not the illness is due to war wounds.

If the President and Congress approve all restrictions on the admission of veterans probably will be dropped early next year. By this arrangement, any veteran taken ill would be eligible for admission to the nearest government hospital for free treatment, on the presentation of an honorable discharge testifying to his war service.

While planning future help for all former soldiers, Hines also announced exceptional progress in the rehabilitation of wounded veterans. At least 20,000 men will be graduated from various federal schools this year.

GIRL VICTIM OF HUGGER IS ETHERIZED

Worcester, Aug. 30.—A dark complexioned man used a handkerchief saturated with ether in an attack upon Miss Helen Johnson, twenty-five years old, of No. 33 Falmouth street, while she was on her way to work, in a dark section of Middle River road, in the Quinsigamond district.

The man emerged from a clump of bushes, crept up behind Miss Johnson, and placed the ether saturated handkerchief over her mouth. The young woman struggled so effectually with her assailant, that he was forced to flight before he was able to make the young woman unconscious.

Miss Johnson customarily waits for a chum, Miss Emma Kolburg, of No. 46 Whipple street, for both to proceed along the lonely road to their place of employment, the Royal Worcester Corset Company, but Miss Kolburg was late and Miss Johnson walked on alone.

Miss Kolburg, though, was not far behind and saw the man leap on Miss Johnson. She screamed and ran back along the road where she stopped a motorist. The two searched the entire section without finding traces of the man.

SUMMONS POLOISTS IN PIER GAMING RAID

Providence, R. I., Aug. 30.—Subpoenas for ten polo players and members of the Summer colony at Narragansett Pier are reported to have been secured by the Attorney-General's department in the case of John C. Joyce of Narragansett Pier, charged with being a common gambler.

Joyce's case was scheduled for trial in the Second District Court in Wakefield tomorrow, but at the request of Attorney A. Walsh it is probable that it will be postponed for a week.

During a recent raid at the Pier, it was reported that several men were found in Elm Cottage, apparently playing solitaire, but poker chips were also found by the sheriff.

LEGION MEMBERSHIP DECREASES 14 P.C.

Although six new charters have been issued during the past year for new American Legion posts, the membership of that organization has decreased approximately 14 per cent., compared with that year, the annual report of Adjutant Leo A. Spillane shows.

WIDOW EVICTED; HER FURNITURE IS RUINED

Mrs. Morrison's furniture thrown out into the rain when she failed to move by the date named in an ejectment notice mailed a month ago.

SOBS AMONG RUINS.

A reporter for the Boston American found Mrs. Morrison sobbing among the ruins of the possessions for which she had labored for years. Mrs. Morrison told this story:

"A month ago H. E. Richardson purchased this house and sent me an ejectment notice. I rented another house at No. 123 West Brookline street, South End, and expected to move the first of the month.

SETS LOSS AT $3,000.

"I work every day at the Tower Company factory in Roxbury. When I returned home from work today I found that everything I own had been thrown out of windows and doors into the street and yard. After years of struggling I had succeeded in building a real home. The furniture and other things cost me $3,000. Now they are worthless."

According to neighbors who witnessed the ejectment of Mrs. Morrison's furniture, Margaret Richardson, sister of the colored real estate dealer, arrived at the Rutland St. address with two workmen. They were admitted by Mrs. Frank Bresnahan, who boards with Mrs. Morrison.

So far as could be learned no ejectment papers were shown but the workmen set about tossing furniture, rugs, pictures and clothing out of the windows. Pieces of furniture which would not go through the windows were carried out the door.

Drunken Driver in Evening Dress Gets 60 Days

Nashua, N. H., Aug. 30.—Joseph Jodzewicz of Lowell, who was arrested, wearing evening dress, in the middle of the afternoon while fixing his auto tire and accused of being drunk while driving an auto, was sentenced to 60 days in jail. He made no defense, but appealed.

COAL MEN BALK AT PINCHOT'S PEACE PLAN

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 30. (A.P.)—Propositions for settlement of the anthracite controversy which Governor Pinchot placed before operators and miners yesterday went before each group in separate meetings for intensive study today.

Both sides have until Friday noon to file their answers.

S. D. Warriner, chairman of the operators' policy committee, called his associates to meet in Philadelphia, away from the scene of negotiations, but John L. Lewis and his scale committee of the United Mine Workers stayed here.

Sharp divergence in views taken of the governor's proposals early cropped out betwen operators and miners' representatives.

MINERS ARE AGREEABLE.

The offer of a ten per cent. flat increase for the anthracite workers, of the universal eight-hour day, of the right to have a union agent in the company offices for collection of union dues, which the governor made, along with a tender of union recognition and of the principle of collective bargaining, won a more than friendly reception from the union contingent.

There was a growing impression that Mr. Lewis would recommend and his scale committee would grant a substantial acceptance of the proposal, and call in the orders for a suspension of work September 1, if the operators consented.

But with the operators, the settlement basis suggested encountered almost open hostility. Their consistent stand for arbitration of all outstanding issues was almost completely neglected, and there was a disposition to consider that the proposals had not adequately measured the increase in the price of coal which would result from the wage increase awarded.

WILL BOOST COAL PRICE.

Governor Pinchot estimated this would amount to 60 cents a ton, of which the operators could absorb 10 cents in lessened profits.

Mine owners themselves calculated that establishing a universal eight hour day would add almost five cents extra to costs. Further, they contended that all of the increase would have to be loaded on the domestic fuel.

EX-KING RE-ELECTED BY INDIAN CLANS

Bombay, Aug. 30.—The Afridis of the Tirah have elected a king. He is Syed Badsha, who on a former occasion was elevated to the kingship but was unable to hold his power. He has greatly increased his following in the last two years and now has assumed control of the tribes. The Afridis are Pathans. They number eight clans.

CABLE BRIEFS

Sydney—Cape Breton coal companies are prepared to supply large quantities of fuel to New England coasters if a strike of anthracite miners causes a fuel shortage.

RAIN COMES TO AID OF CLOSED MILLS

Holyoke, Aug. 30.—A shut-down for the last eighteen hours of most of the large industries of this city, which are dependent upon water power, was ended as the result of a heavy rain which renewed the supply impounded by the Connecticut River dam and allowed the canals to fill.

CURLEY INVITES ORGANISTS TO HUB

Mayor Curley sent a telegram to E. M. Skinner, secretary of the National Association of Organists at Rochester, N. Y., saying "Boston's latch-string is out" in other words inviting the convention to come to the Hub in 1924.

Five Shaken Up

Five Western young men were badly shaken up and bruised, but escaped serious injuries, when their automobile crashed into a stone wall on Elm street, Concord, as the steering wheel broke. The machine is owned by Thomas Callahan of Ash street, Woburn, and was operated by Thomas Lyons, of 4 Porter street, Woburn. The quintet of young men were just returning to Woburn.

Over 54 Million Tire Miles in One Month!

America's leading taxicab and motor bus companies bought 54,208,416 Firestone tire miles in July. Each month these large transportation units are purchasing an increasing amount of Firestone mileage.

They keep accurate records which show the exact mileage of each tire and the actual cost to the fraction of a cent. They have standardized on Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords because they have found from years of experience that nowhere else can they purchase tire service so economically.

Metered mileage and carefully checked costs have likewise convinced thousands of individual car-owners of the extra values built into Firestone Tires by Gum-Dipping and other special and exclusive processes. Having found the way to tire economy they continue these savings by making Firestone regular equipment. You, too, can get unusual comfort, safety and trouble-free service, plus lowest cost per mile.

Buy a set of these Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords from any of the following dealers—check your mileage against the price you pay—and convince yourself.

"I STILL LOVE YOU," SPURNED MAN WIRES

"I still love you and am ready to do anything to assist you."

This telegram from her jilted fiance, Floyd E. Smith, has been received by Mrs. Gertrude Kay, thirty-year-old widow, of No. 46 Newton street, Brighton, whose application for a license to marry Dr. Henry Hyland Burgess, seventy years old next Sunday, is temporarily blocked by a technicality, according to her mother.

The mother, Mrs. Robert Davis of No. 40 Newton street, objects to the proposed marriage to Dr. Burgess "until he proves his stories of his wealth," and because he is more than twice as old as her daughter. She still believes Smith is the proper man for her daughter to marry, although Mrs. Kay says Smith is too proud to associate with Mr. and Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. Davis refused to show the telegram. She also refused to say where Smith is, or to give any other details.

"That's what the telegram said, and that's all you need to know about it," she told newspapermen who interviewed her.

Mrs. Kay repeated her former assertion that she will marry Dr. Burgess as soon as the legal technicalities arising from her application for a marriage license are removed.

When she first applied for a license to wed the doctor it was refused because the license she had to marry Smith had not been returned. After the unused license finally arrived by mail City Registrar McGlennen again refused her a license until she had given a definite address of the doctor— his residence having been stated as in Los Angeles, Lynn and at the Brighton home of her mother.

MIDDLESEX CAR STRIKE IS HINTED

Union carmen employed on the lines of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company will hold a special meeting tonight in Hibernian Hall, Waltham, following the failure of President Pitt F. Drew of the company to meet with the men and a neutral arbiter to discuss a proposed new wage scale.

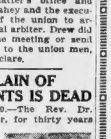
The exact significance of the meeting was not divulged by union officials, although some of them hinted a strike vote may be either taken or arranged for.

On July 1 the wage contract under which the men were working expired. Through their counsel, Attorney J. H. Vahey, the executive committee of the union requested President Drew to meet with them and arrange for a neutral arbiter and the adoption of a new wage schedule. The men asked for an increase of approximately 20 per cent.

Several letters of Vahey to President Drew relative to the appointment of a neutral arbiter, written since July 1, remained unanswered, according to a union official. A few days ago, following another letter from Vahey, President Drew met Vahey in the latter's office and agreed to meet Vahey and the executive committee of the union to arrange for a neutral arbiter. Drew did not appear at the meeting or send word of any sort to the union men, union officials declare.

OLD CHAPLAIN OF ANCIENTS IS DEAD

Essex, Aug. 30.—The Rev. Dr. William H. Rider, for thirty years pastor of the Independent Christian Universalist Church in Gloucester, the mother church of the denomination in this country, is dead here following an operation.



Rev. W. H. Rider

He was born of Mayflower ancestry, in Provincetown, seventy-seven years ago and was graduated from Tufts College and Tufts Divinity School. Since resigning the Gloucester pastorate, he had been pastor of the Universalist Church here for the last ten years.

In the Masonic order, he had been master, chaplain and chaplain emeritus of Tyrian Lodge of Gloucester, deputy grand master of the ninth district and deputy grand master of the grand lodge of Massachusetts. He had also been chaplain of the 2nd corps of cadets, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company and the Massachusetts, New England and National Hotel Associations.

RUM PIRATES SAFE FROM U. S. COURTS

Washington, Aug. 30.—The Federal Government upholds the decision of U. S. Commissioner Hayes in refusing warrants for the American rum pirates who recently attacked the British schooner J. Scott Hankinson and other British rum runners off the New England coast.

Mrs. M. W. Willebrandt

Unless the offenders are prosecuted by State authorities, or their extradition asked for by the Canadian or British Governments, Department of Justice officials see no prospect of prosecution.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney-General in charge of liquor cases, gave it as her opinion that unless a Federal officer was attacked on the high seas or an attack made within the 12-mile "customs limit," the Federal Government was without jurisdiction. The attack in question is said to have taken place more than fifteen miles from shore.

5 HURT AS AUTO AND MOTORCYCLE CRASH

Quincy, Aug. 30—Five persons were injured in a collision between a motorcycle and an automobile on Sea street, half way between Quincy and Houghs Neck. Both machines were badly damaged.

Anthony Berasni of No. 68 Curlew road, Quincy, the operator of the motorcycle, suffered a fracture of the left leg, and his brother, Quintilliano Berasni, who was riding in a sidecar, suffered bruises and contusions.

Edward B. Allen of No. 452 Hancock st., Quincy, operator of the automobile; Edward Warren, who was riding with him, and Mr. Warren's six-year-old daughter, Agnes, were treated at the Quincy Hospital for cuts and bruises. Mrs. Mildred Warren and a small daughter escaped with a shaking up.

ROB BALL PLAYERS OF ALL BUT CARFARE

While members of the Dorchester and South Boston twilight league teams were engaged in hard fought tussle at the C. J. Lee playgrounds, South Boston, sneak thieves looted the street clothes of the players which had been left at Pilgrim Hall, Broadway. Stealing $50 the thieves were kind hearted enough to leave ten cents for carefare in the pockets of each of their victims.

BOY OF 7 BOUND, GAGGED AND KILLED

Death Ends Tragic Life of Mrs. Leeds

FLAPPER OF 62, ACTRESS WILL SUE CAPTAIN

EDNA WALLACE HOPPER

2 16-YEAR-OLD BOOTLEGGERS ARE TRAPPED

Joseph Vella, 16 years old, of No. 10 Charter street, West End, and Frank Muzzie, also 16 years old, of No. 23 Charter street, were arrested in Cambridge after they had tried to sell a quantity of moonshine to a patrolman they thought was a likely customer.

Patrolman Frank Mulverhill, detailed to round up bootleggers in the vicinity of Kendall Square, Cambridge, where every day for several weeks bootleggers have reaped a harvest selling liquor to employes of nearby stores and factories at the luncheon hour, was approached by one of the boys now under arrest and asked if he was in the market for some good liquor.

"Sure I am," answered Mulverhill, "I have been waiting for you to come around. I will take all you have. How much is it?"

"Two dollars a pint," said the young salesman, "and in two minutes I can have a-gallon for you. It is the best manufactured in this part of the State."

The lad returned presently with a chum, but the latter quickly sensed that it was a police officer with whom they were about to do business, and whispering his fear to his companion they both ran. Mulverhill followed and quickly overhauled them.

At the police station, six pints of moonshine were found on the lads.

MESS BOY DYING ON RAFT ONLY SURVIVOR OF LOST SHIP

Shanghai, Aug. 30. (AP.)—One lone Chinese mess boy, dying from thirst and hunger aboard a life raft, was picked up today by the Hong Kong-Shanghai coast steamer Sinkiang, and he is believed to be the sole survivor of the British steamer Mytis, which foundered in a typhoon recently en route from Chinwangtao to Shanghai with a cargo of coal.

Just before finding the boy the steamer picked up a lifeboat in which was the body of Chief Engineer Harvey Green of the Mytis. They were found about ninety miles from Shanghai.

The mess boy, according to statements of the Sinkiang officers, lived for six days aboard the life raft and saw five of his companions perish.

FAMOUS SHIPS GO TO GRAVE, TO BE USED AS TARGETS

The battleships Virginia and New Jersey were towed out of the Charlestown Navy Yard toward sea today where they will be used as targets in airplane bombing manoeuvres. Navy tugs will tow them around Cape Hatteras. Far at sea they will be abandoned and then be sunk in trials of marksmanship of naval bombing fliers.

The battleships have been stripped of everything of value. The stripping process took more than a year.

EDNA WALLACE WANTS HER FREEDOM

Los Angeles, Aug. 30.—Edna Wallace Hopper, actress, know nas the 62 year-old flapper, announced today, according to the Los Angeles examiner, that she is planning to get her second husband, O. A. Brown, now in New York, for divorce.

The action will be brought there, she added. He deserted her four years ago, she added.

"The Knife does it." That is the oft-repeated maxim of Edna Wallace Hopper, who advocates facial surgery which cuts away wrinkles and loose flesh from those who are along in years but who have the hearts of flappers. Edna admits to sixty-two, though "Who's Who" says she was born in 1874 which would make her forty-eight years old. Edna says it's not how old you are but how young you can look and feel.

One of her husbands was Dewolf Hopper, the actor.

WON CHANCE TO RULE ON 2 THRONES

Princess Anastasia Welcomed by Royalty When Spurned by American Society

By JOHN T. BURKE
Universal Cable

London, Aug. 30.—Following an illness of several weeks, the seriousness of which only became known to the public in the last two or three days, Princess Anastasia, wife of Prince Christopher of Greece and formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds, widow of the American tin-plate king, died peacefully here.

The Princess inherited a fortune estimated at $40,000,000 on the death of her second husband. She declared before her death that her will provided that her son, William B. Leeds, was to draw her interest on the trust fund created by Mr. Leeds, but he would not be able to touch the principal.

If her son and his wife, the Princess Xenia, should die, she declared, the entire Leeds fortune would go to their offspring as a trust fund which will cease with the third generation.

If they have no surviving issue, the fortune, she said, would pass to the Lying In Hospital of New York. When young Leeds is thirty-five years old he will inherit the sum of $500,000 outright.

VICTIM OF CANCER

A few hours before death a statement by her physicians carried the news that she was unconscious and very weak. Even then, although there had been reports that the princess had entered a state of coma, forcing her doctors to the use of artificial stimulants, there was no expectation of her sudden demise.

The immediate cause of death was cancer complicated by cirrhosis of the liver. It is considered likely the body will be taken to the United States for interment in the family mausoleum at Woodlawn Cemetery, New York, where her father and mother are buried. Her Greek relatives, however, have expressed the hope that the interment might be in the Greek Royal Cemetery at Tatoi, near Athens.

Prince Christopher is prostrated. The death of his wife marks a series of tragic events connected with the Greek royal family into which she married.

LIFE ONE OF TRAGEDY

Three years ago Princess Anastasia became seriously ill. At the same time her son, William B. Leeds, Jr., married Princess Xenia, the seventeen year-old daughter of Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, and niece of King Constantine.

When the Princess learned of the engagement of her son, she suffered a relapse, and is said to have wept for three days. She had just undergone two major operations, and it was feared at the time she might not live.

She objected to the match on account of the youth and inexperience of the couple, she told her friends.

Princess Anastasia, an American by birth, was enabled to juggle with the map of Europe and select a crown to her liking, through a fortune estimated at $40,000,000, amassed in the tin-plate industry by "Billy" Leeds, once the enterprising proprietor of a little florist's shop in Richmond, Indiana.

The story of her ascent to the top of the social ladder, in face of constant rebuff, through her acquisition of a title is without a parallel even in fiction.

SPURNED BY SOCIETY

In the face of opposition from all the royal families of Europe, including that of Greece, Princess Anastasia was married to Prince Christo-

ALLSTON MAN DROWNED AS BOAT UPSETS

Philip E. Oliver, assistant clerk of the Massachusetts State Senate and former army aviator, and W. R. Bain of New York were drowned in a pond near the Oliver Rimmer home at Forest Hills when their motor boat was overturned.

Word of the accident was received by George H. Otis of No. 1205 Commonwealth avenue, Allston, father of one of the drowned men. The bodies of the two men, Mr. Oliver learned, had not yet been recovered.

Young Oliver, who was one of the rear seat with his wife and 4-year-old son Paul, had left on a trip in a motor boat with Bain. When hours elapsed and the two men did not return, a searching party was sent out.

The overturned boat was found some distance from where it had departed, but no sign of the occupants could be seen. The pond is being dragged for the bodies.

Oliver was twenty-eight years old. He was born in Lynn and was graduated from the Mechanic Arts High School in Boston. He was a veteran of the World War, having served overseas as a lieutenant in the aviation service. On Armistice Day, 1918, he was injured in a plane crash in France and spent two years in hospitals recovering. He lived with his father in Allston.

CHINESE BANDITS KILL TWO BRITISH MISSIONARIES

Shanghai, Aug. 30 (A.P.).—Rev. W. A. Whiteside and Rev. F. G. Watt, British missionaries of the Church Missionary Society, were shot and killed by bandits when traveling in Szechwan Province, August 14, according to a letter from Mienchow received here today.

Mienchow, from which a report came that two British missionaries had been slain by bandits, is near the centre of Szechwan, a province in Western China, bordering on Tibet. There are numerous Protestant mission stations in the vicinity of Mienchow.

MAD JAP BATTLES WITH COP IN ATTEMPT AT HARI KARI

New York, Aug. 30.—A New York policeman and a Japanese valet, the latter beset upon cart kari, fought a blood curdling battle for life. Fugi Harimi, who tried suicide with two twelve-inch butcher knives, was taken to a hospital in a critical condition.

Patrolman John L. Dawson subdued Harimi and was telephoning for an ambulance from the Japanese Fifty Ninth street apartment when Harimi got up and seizing a Japanese officer's sword, battled with the blue coat. Dawson fought with a chair.

BODY FOUND BY FARMER IN WOODS

"I Know Who Did It!" Cries Mother of Victim, but Refuses to Tell

By Universal Service

Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Howard Rothenburg, seven years old, son of Charles Rothenburg, Newark, N. J., hat manufacturer, was found brutally murdered in a clump of bushes, near Wyndham, Greene county.

The boy, who was living with his mother and sister at Wyndham, left his home to go fishing.

VICTIM SUFFOCATED.

Four hours later a farmer found his hat on the road and in looking for the owner discovered the child's body. His hands were tied behind his back with a piece of string and his mouth was bound with a handkerchief.

The farmer carried the body to Wyndham where Coroner William Mulbery said death was caused by suffocation.

"KNOWS WHO DID IT"

When the boy's mother was informed she went into hysterics and cried "I know who did it."

Efforts to force her to reveal the name of the one she suspected were unavailing.

The boy's father was notified of the death of his son by the District Attorney and he is hurrying here.

Local and State police are scouring the woods near where the body was found in an effort to uncover a clue that might lead to the apprension of the murderer.

YOUR BEAUTY

KEEPING THE HANDS LOVELY

By Maria Jeritza

A TREATISE on etiquete dating back to the Fourteenth century entreats its readers to wash their hands "once a day" and their faces "almost as often."

This was of course the standard of elegant society of that time. The average person doubtless felt that all practical demands of cleanliness were met by a good semi-weekly or weekly scrubbing of the hands.

Standards of beauty have indeed changed since the "dark ages." Now it is considered not merely advisable, but essential to health to wash palms and backs of one's hands many times a day. "Cleanliness is next to godliness" runs the old proverb. And certainly cleanliness is a part of beauty.

A great variety of articles such as jackets, coats, mirrors, etc., pass from hand to hand constantly. We shall be helping to lift the general standard of cleanliness and beauty, and maintaining our own by seeing that our hands are immaculate before and after handling these articles.

Hands grimy with dirt lose all claim to daintiness and even the smoothness of skin texture as well. Unsightly eruptions often result from such clogged pores.

Now, frequent immersion of the hands in water, while undoubtedly has certain disadvantages, if hard water and many soaps, harsh and hasty drying leaves them damp and liable to chap.

To counteract these we find soothing and smoothing lotion a great help.

Lemon is an excellent cleanser for the hands. Rub your hands with the pulp and juice of a lemon cut in half will clean them and may save too frequent scrubbing in water.

One busy woman, who, because of the nature of her work finds it necessary to wash her hands often, keeps on her toilet shelf a small bottle of lemon juice mixed with a teaspoonful of salt. After washing her hands she pours a few drops of this mixture over them before she dries them. Both [illegible] and leaves the skin soft and white.

Of course, if you do not keep fresh fruit on hand, so it is best to make up just a little of this lotion at a time.

You may like to apply a cleansing and softening lotion to your hands at night.

The following formula makes a lotion that is most soothing and refreshing:

Peroxide, six ounces; white wax, two ounces; oil of lemon, one ounce; glycerin, one ounce; oil of rose, twenty minims, extract of [illegible] one ounce.

Do not make the mistake of trying to keep your hands white and soft in Summer sun as you do in Winter. It is true, the cool air and biting winds may roughen and chap them. But in Summer sun one is sure to wash your hands oftener because they are more exposed to dust and dirt. And this is the sun, in a manner of speaking, and sun is to be guarded against. A sun cream is better to apply than ample in measures concentrated oil that are useful in case of sunburn [illegible] sun in creams and oils of the hand.

Katherine Gray, Sub-Deb, a Good Sailor, Betty Alden Discovers

By BETTY ALDEN

BEING a "regular" member of the Marblehead colony, bright-eyed Katherine Gray can sail a boat as neatly as almost any of them. Another addition for our "Who's News Along the North Shore."

Little Miss Gray is the sub-deb daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cunningham Gray, whose place at Marblehead Neck is known as "Rocky Beach," their town house being on Gloucester street. If I am not mistaken, Katherine Gray will make the all-important debut when the curtains rises upon the social stage this Fall.

Besides being a skillful sailor, Miss Gray is fond of every kind of sport, especially swimming and tennis. Her young brother, James C. Gray, Jr.—more commonly known as "Bunkie"—is rear commodore of the Junior Eastern Yacht Club, in which fact, proud sister and admiration of his sister has also been a leading member.

Just lately things have been mighty lively at the Junior Yacht Club, where there have been an endless round of races, water sports and dances. It makes quite a picture to see the little clubhouse right down on the water's edge all gaily decorated with flags, and every evening as the flags come in at sunset the youngsters standing at attention while some one's cornet sends the notes of "The Star Spangled Banner" floating over the waters.

MRS. FREDLE MOTLEY of Beverly Farms has with her two children on a visit to Bar Harbor, where they are staying with Mrs. Motley's mother, Mrs. Fremont Smith.

Mrs. Motley, who was formerly Miss Dorothy F. Smith, with her ash-blonde hair and blue eyes, is one of the most attractive younger matrons of the Farms county, as well as a leader in her set.

BACK from a trip abroad is Louis A. Shaw, who is now staying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Prosbee Curtis at "Sturrow Hill," as their Beverly Farms place is called.

Other visitors at "Sturrow Hill" include Mr. Shaw's two little girls, Joanna Bird Shaw and Pauline Adams Shaw. Their mother is now Mrs. Arthur F. Johnson of Louisburg square.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES S. PEABODY and Miss Caryl Peabody were among the Bostonians recently arriving at the Aspinwall Hotel in Lenox.

REAR ADMIRAL AND MRS. CAMERON McRAE WINSLOW and their family have returned from their travels abroad and are remaining through September at Newport, where they have been spending the past few Summers. During the Winter, the Winslows make their home in Boston on Bay State road. Practically all the members of the Winslow family are enthusiastic tennis players.

MISS KATHERINE GRAY

Miss Gray, daughter of the James Cunningham Grays of Marblehead, is added today to our "Who's News Along the North Shore."

MISSING TEACHER IS FOUND IN A DAZE

New York, Aug. 30.—Miss Mary Helen Rohe, a school teacher of Lockhaven, Pa., reported missing since August 6, was located today in the House of the Good Shepherd, Brooklyn.

She was found Saturday in Prospect Park apparently on the verge of a nervous breakdown, and had been taken in custody on a charge of vagrancy. Frederick D. Gearhart, president of the Susquehanna Coal Company, an old friend, identified Miss Rohe and she will be placed in his care.

Year's Best Selling Novel Reveals Mysterious Return of Youth and Beauty to Old Woman

START THIS BEST-SELLER HERE TODAY

A young and beautiful woman creates a sensation at a first night in New York by rising in her seat at the theatre and coolly surveying the audience through her glasses, after the European fashion. Clavering and his friend, Dinwiddie, are immediately interested, and the latter receives a shock, declaring that she is the image of a former society belle, Mary Ogden, though much younger than she should be at that time. He thinks she may be a daughter. Clavering follows Mary home from the theatre and aids her to get into the house as she has lost her key. She invites him in and tells him she is Countess Josef Zattiany. He nearly guesses her secret. He asks her to marry him. He takes her to a gay studio party, after which she invites him home to hear her story of renewed youth He is stunned by the revelation.

"What did you come here and spoil everything for"

"I FORGOT my own tragedy and haw-hawed three times. She looked almost apologetic when she called us by our first names, especially when she used the diminutive. Polly Vane, who's got a head like a billiard ball and has to wear a wig for decency's sake, drew herself up twice and then relaxed with a sickly grin

"All the same I don't think Mary felt any more comfortable or liked it much better than the rest of us. Too much like reading your own epitaph on a tombstone I thought I saw her squirm.

"How did they talk it indicated by?" Clavering hoped she was finally diverted. "Were they jealous and resentful?"

"Some. Elinor Goodrich had always been so beautifully fond of her to mind. Others who had been merely admirers and liked her, were wont to say they were enchanted to see Mary looking not a day over thirty, but they were all too future it. Isabel Lawrence thought it downright immoral, and Polly Vane looked as if she had fallen into a stinking morass and only refrained from holding her nose out of consideration for her hostess.

"I think she feels that Mary's return is an insult to New York Lily Tracy was painfully excited No doubt she'll begin collecting for the Vienna poor at once and finding it necessary to go over and distribute the funds in person Mary lost no time getting to her face work for Vienna relief

"But they'll all stand by her."

"Oh, yes, she's Mary Ogden We'd be as likely to desert New York itself because we didn't like the Mayor. And she'll need us. It's the young women she'll have to look out for. My God! How they'll hate her As for Ann Goodrich and Marian Law rence

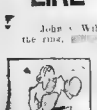
GREB SAYS HE CAN DEFEAT WILSON DESPITE LOW WEIGHT

CHALLENGER RING FREAK LIKE JOHNNY DUNDEE

By JACK COFFEY

John ... Wilson, the most abused champion in the history of the ring, ... who assailed him did not appreciate his true ability when he battles Harry Greb in a fifteen-round bout to a decision at the Polo Grounds, New York, tomorrow night.



If Wilson wins over Greb, those persons who have referred to the former Charlestown mulatto as a cheese champion and other choice things will probably be the first to announce that they always considered Johnny a dangerous fighter.

It will be Wilson's first important bout in almost two years. At Jersey City a year ago last Labor Day, Wilson went through twelve dismal rounds with Bryan Downey, ... crowd which, combined with the poor ... bout, caused Tex Rickard to refuse to pay Wilson ... $40,000

WILSON SUSPENDED FOR AVOIDING GREB BOUT

Wilson finally was ... signing to battle Greb ... paid the money he was ... for his bout with Dow ...

Marty Kavanaugh, ... manager, ... the middleweight champion ... would not be ... fighting suspended in New York and in most other States where the ring game is legalized.

Frank Marlow, a New York sportsman, purchased Kilbane's interest in Wilson's contract and is going through with the Greb match.

The contest was made at 160 pounds at 3 o'clock.

Marlow feels that Greb can ... strong at such a low poundage.

The question of weight is the most important element connected with this match. At 158 pounds Greb easily defeated Tom Gibbons who later went fifteen rounds with Jack Dempsey. It is felt in some quarters that Greb would be able to outpoint Dempsey in a ten-round bout.

The heavyweight champion apparently isn't any too sure of his ability to win over Greb in a short bout as he has passed up a couple of opportunities to earn $100,000 by boxing Greb eight rounds in Philadelphia.

Five years ago Greb didn't have any trouble at ranking 154 pounds. Since then he has put on weight but says he has been able to get down to 160 pounds without much trouble.

GREB, LIKE DUNDEE, IS A FREAK FIGHTER.

Johnny Dundee, who normally weighs 130 pounds, reduced to 124½ pounds for League Island and was as strong as in any of his bouts. The Scotch Wop, ... a matter of fact, fought better ... this low poundage than when he ... scales around 130 pounds.

Greb, like Dundee, ... a freak fighter ... to make the low weight and ... an all of his amazing ... of ability.

The weight question and the stories that have been circulated about the ... Greb being "in the ... bag" for Wilson have caused many big bettors to refuse to make any wagers on this match.

This writer does not think the stories of the bout being prearranged are true. Greb is wealthy and also proud of his ring record. He would have everything to lose, nothing to gain, by tossing the bout to Wilson.

Furthermore, Wilson has never shown any desire to have any of his bouts "fixed." Johnny has been satisfied to go in and fight on his merits.

There is no disputing Wilson's courage. After he won the title from Mike O'Dowd in Boston, the Big Paul man set up a claim he had been jobbed out of his championship. Wilson then signed to battle O'Dowd in a return bout in New York. He gave O'Dowd a terrific beating in this contest and was so far out front when the final show had been delivered that even Mike's supporters were satisfied the verdict of the judges was an honest one.

Wilson will find, though, that Greb is quite a different type of fighter from O'Dowd.

All of which will give the fans plenty of thrills at the Polo Grounds tomorrow night.

FIRPO WILL DO HIS BEST FOR DEMPSEY

By Universal Service

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 30—Luis Angel Firpo took the day off because of bad weather. He was up at six o'clock in the morning, but his managers decided him his road work because of the rain. The challenger motored around town with local newspaper men.

Luis Angel Firpo.

Firpo seemed indifferent to his coming setto with Jack Dempsey in his conversation with others in quarters of the machine, which was carried on through an interpreter. He offers no prediction, but says he is going in the ring to fight his best.

Joe McCann, one of Firpo's sparring partners, is peeved at the criticism directed at the Wild Bull of the Pampas.

"Firpo is ready to meet Dempsey today," asserted McCann, who, incidentally, has the distinction of being the only man who floored the heavyweight aspirant in Firpo's fights in this country.

"This talk about Firpo on a half makes me tired," he continued. "Firpo is on razor edge now. He they went to burn him up" he is within a pound and a half or two of his proper weight. His recent fights have kept him conditioned to the minute. To add to his work would be dangerous."

TWO HOT GAMES BOOKED FOR TWI LEAGUE

Only two games are booked for the Greater Boston Twilight League tonight, the Dilboy Post V. F. W. playing the Everett City Club at Everett, and the St. Andrews A. A. having it out with Malden on the Perrywood Green orchard, Malden.

Frank Shea

The Malden outfit is going on high and the saints have their work cut out for them. One of the Malden stars is Frank Hamilton who covers the keystone sack in rare style.

It is likely that Frank Shea will oppose Jim Shea, who is twirling great ball for the Saints.

With Dilboy playing Everett City club on the Everett High grounds, things are going to be interesting. These two clubs met twice and the diamond battles ended with tie scores. In this season Jack Leary's ...

outfit got away with a 21-0 win over the vets.

"Buck" O'Brien will mount the rubber for the Somerville outfit, while either Frank "Pearce" Hunt or Cy Morgan will go in for Everett.

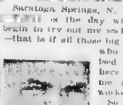
DEMPSEY OPENS WORK ON BIG FELLOWS

By Universal Service

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 30 ... all on the day when I shall begin to try out my socking powers—that is if all those big hurks arrive who have promised to come here and give me nice, rough workouts."

So spoke Jack Dempsey.



Jack Dempsey.

The champion spent the last of his three days of rest and around the base of a baseball lesser.

"How how I keep the opposition, you're right. You just think you're a pitcher."

Dempsey climbed on the mound and shot a fast one. A batsman swung—and they haven't found the ball yet. He threw more and yes more baseballs at the counters and a pleasant time was had by all—except Dempsey.

Even before the first round ended the Champion decided that as a pitcher he was not quite so good, so he retired to the seclusion of first base when he performed chores in noble fashion and became quite conspicuous with the bludgeon.

Jack McAuliffe, the Detroit heavyweight, who was knocked overboard by Luis Firpo in the third round, arrived at the camp and Dempsey promptly began to quiz him all about the pounding power of the Firpo fists. Afterward Dempsey remarked.

"Well, what he did to McAuliffe he is not going to do to me—no sir, he is not," said Jack

BILL JOHNSON IS WONDER PLAYER, FOR U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM

HAS NEVER LOST BIG MATCH

By VINCENT RICHARDS
National Indoor Tennis Champion.

New York, Aug 30.—When Little Bill Johnston, the California marvel swings into action tomorrow afternoon in the first match of the Davis Cup series against Australia, at the new West Side tennis stadium, he will be given the opportunity of matching the wonderful record set by H. L. Doherty, of England many years ago. Doherty played in thirteen Davis Cup matches and the Britishers have never been able to chalk up a defeat against him.

The midget Californian has won about every tennis title that the game has to offer, but with this honor in sight there is no question about his trying extremely hard in a final effort to break it, or at least tie it. Johnston has never tasted defeat in a Davis Cup encounter. His record to date shows an even dozen victories. "Big Bill" Tilden, called by many critics the greatest player of all time, has almost exactly the same record in the singles, but he suffered defeat last Summer in the Davis Cup doubles match, when he went down to defeat, paired with the writer before the smashing net attack of Patterson and Woods.

Bill Johnston

HAS NOT LOST SET IN DAVIS CUP PLAY

In the last three years "Little Bill," as he is called by many admirers, has not even lost a set in an important Davis Cup match [illegible] against the famous coast wizard just walks right through his Davis Cup opponents in straight sets.

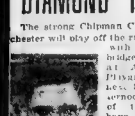
Tilden has been forced to five sets and often to a deuce set in the final stanza. Tennis fans will always remember the time that Shimidzu, the Japanese wonder of the courts took the first two sets from Tilden and had him almost licked in the last and deciding set only to have the tall Quaker stage one of his world famous rallies that eventually won him the match in five furious sets. Time and again the Philadelphian has been close to defeat and this goes not only in Davis Cup matches but also in many other important tournaments only to come back at the unexpected moment and win the encounter.

AUSTRALIAN TENNIS STARS HAVE RARE ABILITY

Whether Tilden and Johnston can maintain their perfect singles record against Anderson and Hawkes in the coming Davis Cup matches this week is of course an open question at the present time. Many of the able tennis critics are apt to belittle the ability of these two famous Australians.

RIVALS CLASH FOR DIAMOND TITLE

The strong Chipman Club of Dorchester will play off the rubber game with the Cunningham All Stars at Ashmont Playgrounds, on Lee, Sunday afternoon. Each of the teams have a victory to their credit. Lommy, former ly of Holy Cross will pitch for the Chipman Club while young Stanley is figured on to hold down the box for the University City. George Godfrey, who is turning in many brilliant plays for the Chipman Club will be seen in the outer garden.



CONCORD JUNCTIONS BEAT CHELMSFORD

In an exciting and closely fought twilight game, the Concord Junction club nine won its rubber game from the Chelmsford Town team, 6 to 5, in a seven inning encounter on the Concord Junction playground. Brandon's two bagger scored Edward Hanson with the tieing run and sent Hefty across the plate with the winning count for Concord Junction with one man in the seventh.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACES GO ON TODAY

By GUS DALY

The racing program of the trotters and pacers at Readville was interrupted by a heavy downpour after three heats of the day's sport had been held.

Tommy Murphy showed the mettle of his speedy trotter Count Bugle which won the first heat in the 2:09 trot. Wilmington did the same thing in the only heat of the Neponset 2:07 stake pace, and Walter Cox, behind one of the best races of his career, brought Favonian a winner in the only heat of the Massachusetts $10,000 stake.

"Long shot" was compelled to go the overland route on account of the track conditions. As they swung into the stretch Favonian was next to last. Cox then set sail, and in a furious drive, from Elinor Guy and Clyde the Great, he won by an eyelash.

Then came the "Deluge." The program was put over until this afternoon, when the five events scheduled will be finished if conditions

ARMORY OPENING ON WEDNESDAY

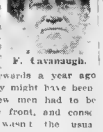
Tony Julian is busy training at Brockton for his ten round bout with Johnny Clinton, which will feature the opening show of the Armory A. A. at the Grand Opera House next Wednesday night.

Julian, a lad of nineteen, is one of the best ring prospects in this country. Last Winter he handed the dope a severe jolt when he walloped Johnny Dundee. He later gave Joe Tiplits a torrid battle and lost a close decision.

Clinton has won his last twelve starts in New York rings. Clinton has proved a revelation during the past year and figures he will upset Julian.

FOOTBALL GETS UNDER WAY ON TUESDAY

Football will start scoring through the late Summer breezes at University Heights on Tuesday, Coach Frank Cavanaugh has issued the call for his candidates, and boys will commence to collect bruises at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.



F. Cavanaugh.

Cav is looking for another wonder team this Fall. He has one of the very best backfields in the country. Most of his troubles with be with the line. The Heights forwards a year ago were not all they might have been.

A flock of new men had to be thrown into the front, and consequently there wasn't the usual Cavanaugh smoothness in evidence. Things should be better this year. Practically the entire line will be back for more punishment, not to mention a nifty coterie of school stars.

More than fifty athletes will answer the first call, and after a week or so, the gridiron officials expect to have the biggest squad in Boston College history out one the well-known barred field.

FITCHBURG BEATS GARDNER, 3 TO 1

ASHBURNHAM, Aug. 30.—Fitchburg semi-pros, winners of the pennant in the Central Massachusetts Twilight League defeated the Gardner semi-pros 3 to 1.

The game was Gardner's up to the seventh inning when Fitchburg and Lacey of Gardner gave a good account of themselves on the mound. An inter-city series with Gardner will start here Labor Day.

The game was an exhibition game at the Old Home Day exercises here.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

Henry Ford is not the principal political bugaboo frightening us business community.

What is feared more than Ford is the possible clamor for easy ways of increasing the amount of money to be used throughout the country.

* * *

As wheat prices have lately been rising less has been heard on this subject. But let prices for farm products relapse, and the danger is that the agitation, quite popular when wheat was below $1, a bushel would be taken up with greater vigor than ever before.

In other words discontent will en danger our currency system.

* * *

In all the ages the idea of making money plentiful by the simple process of manufacturing more of it has appealed alluringly to certain classes. Every year letters come to me advocating the printing of enough money to supply everybody with a liberal share. Some of the writers admit that this would be overprinting simply go ahead and print scores of billions of paper dollars, without bothering to see that every dollar is reserved or any specific collateral or security backing up the end we supply of new notes. Other writers urging the changes on 31-0 Nation memorable proposed currency be issued based on the total assets of the Government of Massachusetts.

Sometimes it is asked indignantly "is not the credit of the United States Government absolutely good?" We could print hundred of millions or more greenbacks without value for their every one cent.

* * *

Some even suggest that the government should pay its bills by printing plenty of paper money and keep the fact a secret. In this way, the argument runs, there would be no danger of lowering the standing of the currency.

* * *

Now, there might have been some excuse for saying a little nonsense about the merit of increasing the country's stock of paper currency had we not witnessed such tragic lessons in Russia, in Germany and in nations of less importance. Most people had either forgotten or had never learned what has happened in France when she resorted to the pumping out of oceans of unsecured currency.

* * *

But how can any sensible American can suggest for one moment that the United States Government take even the slightest step toward initiating the same objectives as pursued by the Russian revolutionists and by the supposedly statesmanlike governmeat of Germany?

* * *

What is happening in Germany today?

One American dollar is worth seven thousand German marks. Before Germany started on her printing presses a dollar was worth less than 5 marks.

* * *

The German people have completely lost faith in their money. Merchants will not sell goods because they know that next day or a few days later these goods would bring a far greater number of marks.

For example, prices in Germany not only doubled but trebled during the first ten days of this month.

* * *

Starting to "water" currency is like starting to take dope—the process has to go on and on and on even more. Just as the "dope" fiend or the drunkard requires a larger dose or increase amounting to 50 million marks—that is, 50 million fresh marks. This swells the total stock of currency by 57 per cent in one week. For the fortnight the increase was 170 per cent. In one month the total was multiplied ten times.

* * *

Surely it is worth noting that the countries that have done best since the war have been, generally speaking, those that most rigidly resisted the temptation to run their printing presses merrily on the turning out paper money. The American dollar has become the standard of value in various countries, while the pound and its value fluctuated little all through the war. Britain's currency suffered more but the British Government did not cease to be turning out paper pounds by the bale.

* * *

No, Mr. Ford, currency is not a matter of "water-standard timber," measurable only by the farmer. Currency is the life blood of business. It is worth just as much as it is worth. A currency worth less, it is broke. I loved to speak worthless.

MRS. LEEDS, U.S. PRINCESS, DEAD

pher, brother of the then uncrowned King Constantine of Greece.

Stories of her fabulous wealth attracted an embassy from tiny Lithuania, who offered her the throne of that country. Austria, struggling to recover a place on the map, laid its throne at the feet of Princess Anastasia and Prince Christopher and the Leeds' millions. The Princess cast her lot with the Greek family, and aided her brother in law to regain the throne of his fathers.

Rejected by New York and New port society, and failing in her assault on the English social front, Mrs. Leeds, by her marriage, became to some the wife of Prince Christopher, uncle of King George of Greece, first cousin by marriage of the British sovereign, George V, and Queen Victoria of Spain; nephew of Queen Alexandra and Queen Dowager Czarina, Marie Fedorovna, and connected by consanguinity with the royal family of Denmark, and with many ramifications through the lesser marriage of imperial and royal houses.

PILED UP FORTUNE

Thus, the former Nonnie May Stewart, the Cleveland high school girl, took precedence over every other American girl who has married a titled foreigner and outranked even the premier English Duchess.

William Bateman Leeds, the second husband of Princess Anastasia, born in Tennessee, started to earn his own living at an early age. He went into the florist business, and might have remained in that business had he not married an old school mate in Richmond. She was a relative of the general superintendent of the Logansport division of the Pennsylvania railroad, and this man took Leeds from the florist's shop and started him on the way in the railroad business.

Along this line the tin plate industry had its inception in America, and Leeds became associated with Daniel G. Reid in the tin plate business. The tariff bill passed soon afterward gave complete protection to the tin plate industry. Leeds and Reid formed a trust which they later sold out to the United States Steel Company at a profit of $50,000,000.

SOUGHT BY PRINCE

In 1900, Leeds obtained a divorce from his first wife, and settled $1,000,000 upon her. Before the decree he had met Mrs Nonnie Stewart Worthington, who was being sued for divorce by her husband, Mr. Worthington at the same time was suing one of his close friends for alienation of affections. The divorce was granted, and three days later the Cleveland High School girl became the second Mrs. Leeds.

After a honeymoon in Paris, during which Leeds gave his bride a $350,000 pearl necklace, which cost him $110,000 in duty to bring to America, Mrs. Leeds began to take her place of honor in New York and Newport society for admission.

But the money which they brought her a throne, and enabled her to meddle with the map of Eastern Europe, could not be used as a key to the portals of American society. Amazed, Mrs. Leeds and her husband returned to Paris, where in 1906, Leeds suddenly died, leaving his wife $40,000,000, which in the course of a few years became greatly increased. They had a son, named after his father.

A second siege on American society was no more successful, and Mrs. Leeds returned to Europe to remain permanently.

Prince Christopher seemed a for tune, and following the event, finally came to Mrs Leeds. He needed money badly, for his royal brother, King Constantine, was guarding his resources for the war which threatened to break over Europe at any moment. Mrs. Leeds at that time was forty-four years old, and the Prince thirty.

With the war and the expulsion of the Greek royal family, Mrs Leeds, who from a point of vantage in Switzerland had rendered considerable aid to the allies, won the favor of the dethroned King Constantine, who rewarded her efforts with tons of good sound American dollars as a powerful lever to raise him back into power. The marriage took place, Mrs. Leeds became Princess Anastasia.

Children Dressed Up—

These Ladies, but They Might Get Into Mischief Without Meaning It

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

THESE LADIES, MUCH PLEASED WITH THEMSELVES, ARE AFFILIATED WITH THE KU KLUX KLAN—THEY CALL THEMSELVES THE "LOTTIES"

At Point Pleasant, New Jersey, many gentlemen in search of excitement were initiated into the Ku Klux Klan. Above is a photograph taken at night, showing ladies "affiliated with the klan," evidently greatly enjoying the mystery which they think surrounds them.

They have their faces masked, and the change from the dullness of taking care of the dishes and looking after the house to the excitement of appearing with fiery cross and masked faces is very great.

These young ladies are very much like children that dress up in their mother's clothes and parade the streets, feeling important. The only trouble is that, like those children, these ladies, without knowing it or planning it, may get into mischief or be the cause of mischief in others.

All secret societies have this in common: They want to DO and BE and POSSESS something that others cannot be and cannot possess.

They develop secrecy in a republic, where everything as far as possible should be open and above board.

A good enough society, NOT secret, open to everybody, is the great society of the United States and of its united citizens. Why is that society not enough?

Corn, Wheat—

And the Farmer

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

A year ago the average price of corn was 64.04 cents and of wheat 97 1-10 and a fraction on the farm. Now the value of wheat is 84.02 and of corn 87.04. And this in spite of the fact that the wheat crop is 69,000,000 bushels less than last year, while the corn forecast shows a crop increase of 105,000,000 bushels over last year.

The corn crop is up over a hundred million bushels, the wheat crop is cut down sixty-nine million bushels. Yet corn is dear and wheat is cheap. The old "supply and demand" law gives way to the fact that Europe will not or cannot buy our wheat. We are not able to use it all, but we can use our own corn, changing it into beef and pork by feeding it on the farm.

Farmers seek to keep out immigration, and they lack labor. Immigration would supply labor and mouths to eat HERE the crops that Europe can't buy.

For the farmers, whose worries just now are many, here is a suggestion. A correspondent of Cottonwood Falls, Kansas, sends it broadcast:

Brant Brothers built four mammoth silos, each holding 320 tons. They have 200 acres of Kaffir corn, somewhat damaged by dry weather, followed by hot winds. They will put all that corn into the silos, about 1,280 tons, and sell it for $8 a ton to cattle feeders. Thus they will get more than $10,000 off their 200 acres in spite of a "crop failure" and enjoy a comfortable Winter.

St. Joseph's Pony Express

There's a Lesson in It

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

St. Joseph, Missouri, enterprising, booming city, organizes a pageant to include a revival of the old pony express. From St. Joseph to the Pacific Ocean cowboys and hard-riding United States soldiers gallop in relays along the old trail, over mountains, through deserts and on to the land that meant only gold back in 1850.

This interesting revival will remind the people of St. Joseph and the whole country that public ownership, properly managed, as shown in the postoffice, can be made to work profitably, economically and efficiently.

Does anybody imagine that private ownership would ever carry a letter from Jacksonville, Florida, to Seattle, Washington, for two cents? Do you remember when so-called "level-headed business men" opposed the parcels post? Ask them about what they think now.

Pleads for a Stroller

Editor Helping Hand

I have five children from one to fourteen years old. I would like, if I could, to get a stroller, as I am not able to carry my baby in my arms, as she is too heavy for me. My husband has been out of work for more than six months in the past year, and he just got out of the hospital after a serious operation and is so weak he can't do heavy work yet. I would like to get some clothes for the children. The boys are fourteen, 10½ and eight, the girl is four years old and the baby ten months. I also would appreciate anything for myself. I wear size 38. Anything will be thankfully received. Hope some kind reader will be able to help us out.

MRS J. S

Need Clothes for School

Editor Helping Hand

I have read in your paper of how good you have been, and I wonder if you could help me out? My husband is out of work, and we have all been in the hospital recently and it has taken most of his wages to pay bills. I have one boy six years old and a girl nine and they both need clothes for school. I am very handy with the needle and could make over old clothes. If any kind lady has any shoes, size 4½, I would feel grateful for them.

"Better Luck Later"

Editor Helping Hand

I received your letter and I do thank you sincerely for sending me the addresses. I signed myself B. L. L., meaning "better luck later," but it has gone from bad to worse, as he has lost his job. Now there is nothing coming in. If I can only get some clothes for myself (I haven't anything to speak of) I could go get a job. My husband needs a suit terribly bad. I don't believe anybody will hire him for a chauffeur with his overall pants on, and that is all he has got at the present time. Believe me, please, I do appreciate what help I have received through you and I hope to show you my appreciation in some way.

MRS. A. B. W.

In Need of Mattress

Editor Helping Hand

I am 68 years old. My husband has just come out of the hospital and is not able to work. I have been unable to find employment as yet. I wish I have been searching incessantly. I can do cleaning, or any other work of that nature. I must find work soon, as we are practically penniless now. Has any of your readers a three-quarter mattress that we could use? We are badly in need of one, and have no money to get it.

MRS. M.

I wrote a postcard to Miss H., thanking her very much. Maybe she didn't get it, for I lost her address and forgot it. I did receive the bundle and it is no more than right to thank her.

Visits To Get Food

Editor Helping Hand

I am going to ask you to help me. I see all the people you are helping and I think it is wonderful. I have a little girl two years old and a baby two months old, and since the baby was born my husband has been out of work. We are living from hand to mouth. Some days we eat and some days I have to go out to visit so my little girl can get a cup of tea. And I nurse my baby and it is awful hard on me. I pay $15 a month rent and next Saturday I will owe $17.50. The landlord told me that if I didn't have it this Saturday that I would have to move. So, if there is anybody needs help, Sir, you can see that I do. If I was only straightened out in my rent, I think I could bear the rest. If there is anybody that has any stockings or clothes they don't need I would appreciate them very much. I am nineteen years old and wear size 36 or 38. But, if you can only help me in my rent, I shall be perfectly satisfied. I am thanking you in advance because I see how many people you help out. I feel sure you will help me, too. Some day I hope I can help, too.

Children Need Clothes

Editor Helping Hand

We have five children that are in need of shoes and clothes. One boy is ten years old and one girl is eight years old; another boy is seven years old and we have a boy of four and a girl of two years. My husband has been in poor health for several years and has lost much time. We have bills to pay and are in need of help, if you would please do for us as you would have some one do for you if you were in need.

Seeks Quilt Pieces

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a sister who expects a baby in December and she hasn't got a thing to dress it in and is not able to get anything. Her husband was sick all last Winter. He is working now to pay back bills and she is worrying and does not know how she is going to get anything. I can not help her myself as I have six children of my own to take care of. But, if you have any pieces to make quilts I would like some as I have the tops for two, but can not get the pieces to finish them up.

MRS. A. M. R.

Deserted, Asks Aid

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there not some good, kind reader who will help us? I am alone with three children—a seven-year-old girl, a boy of four and a baby two months old. My husband left me destitute before my baby was born. We all are in need of clothes, and if somebody who has a carriage they don't need and will send it to me I shall be grateful, for my baby hasn't any. I am supported by the city. Hoping you will please help me.

MRS. D. K.

Repeats Gratitude

Editor Helping Hand:

I received your letter some time ago and want you to forgive me for not thanking the generous givers. You see, when I answered their letters before they sent the bundles I thanked them all. But, maybe, I did not thank them in the right way. Anyway, I am sorry and so I am going to say thank you in the right way.

SCIENCE TO ATTEMPT CORRECTION OF SPOILED CHILD

By Herbert Kaufman

THE Rush Medical College at Chicago is about to start the second known clinic for the correction of sullen, unruly minors.

Dr. C. G. Gruelle says small families have produced a problem which calls for special handling. Over-petted and indulged youngsters inevitably develop rambunctious egos.

He traces much undernourishment to lax upreraring. "When they stop eating, or eat sparingly, the whole household is upset," and our spoiled darlings proceed to enjoy the spotlight.

New York will hold a convention on October 22 to celebrate the hundredth anniversary of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children. There were no humane laws of any sort a century ago.

Now even China and Chili are fighting to preserve the rights of infants.

Lots of things are wrong, but not so wrong as they used to be. The plagues, fevers and humors of our fathers are well in leash.

Too many and too sudden changes in diet and habit have provoked in us malignant growths and irritations faster than we could invoke remedies, but time and tenacity will deal with these later inflictions as scarlet fever, dropsy, typhoid, diphtheria, smallpox, diabetes, hookworms and paresis were met and checked.

Futures are always shrewder than pasts.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON EARTH'S ROTATION

By Garrett P. Serviss

"THERE is a question in physics which has always perplexed me, and I hope you will favor me with an answer. Assuming that weight is the resultant force caused by the rotation of the earth upon its axis which has the tendency to throw things off the earth's surface, and of gravity which tends to hold objects upon the surface, why does an object not have terrific weight at either pole, where the centrifugal force is theoretically nil, and why does not that same object have infinite lightness at the equator, where the centrifugal force should be greatest?

AN object is heavier at the poles than at the equator, but not "terrifically" so. Conversely the same object is lighter at the equator than at the poles, but not "infinitely" light. Why do you use words so recklessly? If you do your thinking in that way you miss your mark by overshooting it.

It is necessary to distinguish between the words "gravity" and "gravitation." The first indicates the combined effect of gravitation and centrifugal force in producing what is called "weight." The earth has a certain force of gravitation depending upon the amount of mass, or matter, that it contains.

The effects of this force vary with distance from the center of the earth. The weight of a body on the earth's surface also varies according to the mass of that body. In proportion as it has more mass the earth's gravitation imparts to it greater weight.

But the earth is a globular body rotating like a spinning ball, and experience tells us that such motion produces the effect of a force tending away from the axis of rotation. This is "centrifugal force," and it acts in opposition to the force of gravitation.

If the earth did not rotate, weight would be a product of gravitation alone. But since the earth does rotate, thus producing a centrifugal force acting against gravitation, the amount of weight caused by gravitation is diminished in proportion to the ratio of the centrifugal force to the force of gravitation. The resultant of the two forces, which determines the weight actually measured, is "gravity."

Now, gravity is not the same everywhere on the earth, because centrifugal force varies with the distance from the axis of rotation, and that distance, which is a maximum at the equator, becomes zero at the poles. Consequently, centrifugal force has its greatest effect in opposing gravitation at the equator, while it has no effect at the poles. But, the result is not to give "terrific weight" to objects at the poles, or to cause them to weigh nothing at all at the equator. In fact, the difference in weight at the poles and the equator is slight, and iw the earth were a perfect homogeneous sphere, a body would lose only 1-289th of its weight in passing from either pole to the equator.

In order that objects on the equator should really lose all the weight imparted by the earth's gravitation, or that gravity should become nil along the equator, it would be necessary to increase the centrifugal force 289 times. This could, theoretically, be done by increasing the speed of the earth's rotation.

HEROINES OF HISTORY

LIFE OF ABIGAIL ADAMS

"FOR John came neither eating nor drinking, and ye say he hath a devil."

This was the text read sonorously and with a tone of voice approaching bitterness and derision by a stiff-necked old Puritan clergyman in New England in Colonial days.

The reason for the selection of this verse and the sarcastic propounding of the theme thereon was that his daughter, Abigail, had just accepted a poor young lawyer who had not as yet attained to the dignity of a single client.

But the Rev. Smith was wrong when he compared his future son-in-law to the improvident John of the text.

His son-in-law may have come "neither eating nor drinking," but before he died he had eaten and drunk in the first house of his country. For he was John Adams, second President of the United States of America. And with him lived his devoted wife, Abigail Smith Adams, the daughter of the clergyman.

Perhaps when the Rev. Smith saw that his daughter Abigail was forced to exhibit unusual courage and fortitude when her husband rallied to the flag of the colonies and left her and their children for a time alone, he thought that his text had been correct.

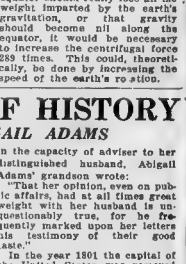
After the war was over and peace had been declared John Adams was sent to France as commissioner, and later was honored by appointment to the difficult post of minister to England.

Abigail Adams was of the greatest help to her husband. She was a born diplomat and won all hearts by her simple charm of manner.

In all questions John Adams consulted the talented little lady who was his wife. Of her ability in the capacity of adviser to her distinguished husband, Abigail Adams' grandson wrote:

"That her opinion, even on public affairs, had at all times great weight with her husband is unquestionably true, for he frequently marked upon her letters his testimony of their good taste."

In the year 1801 the capital of the United States was removed to Washington, which was the occasion for great celebrations and many official functions.



Over these Abigail presided with admirable dignity and charm, for John Adams was then President of the United States. It was she who inaugurated the custom of the impressive New Year's reception at the White House, which is held to this day.

In all the annals of the history of the ladies of the White House there is no name which stands out with finer distinction than that of Abigail Adams, the little New England miss who married the man of her choice—though he came "neither eating nor drinking," and by whom she stood as a helpmate as he worked to lay the foundation of a great nation.

Prince Georgie and Those Famous Vanderbilt Eyes

A Striking "Close-Up" of "Newport's Most Lustrous Eyes." At Right: Excerp from a Society Observer's Letter to a Friend, Hinting at the Prince's Interest in the American Belle.

Grace has probably the most beautiful eyes among the young elect of Newport. She happens to be noted for her sports, and Prince George may dive into 'em and drown!

Have Miss Grace's Beautiful Blue-Green Orbs Bewitched Britain's "Royal Sailor Boy?" Asks International Society, Tattling Over Her Recent London Social Successes

Miss Grace Vanderbilt, Whose Lovely Eyes Made Her the Talk of Mayfair During London's Summer Season.

Prince George First Met Miss Vanderbilt at a Party Given by the Duke of Marlborough.

King George, of England, Enjoying a Canter with Three of His Sons, the Prince of Wales (Center), Prince George (Right) and Prince Henry.

Brigadier-General Cornelius Vanderbilt, III, with His Daughter, Grace, on Board the S.S. Van Dyck

OVER its eggshell teacups, behind its ivory-ribbed fans, Society of two nations is whispering, chuckling, conjecturing. Park Avenue puts a question, delicately, deliberately. Mayfair raises an eyebrow, quizzical, but pleased.

And though the cables on the Atlantic's floor (being discreet cables), fail to crackle with the gossip, that gossip filters back and forth. Its echoes trickle between London and New York, till one might think the two distinguished names, thus linked in the telling, would blush—agreeably—at all this energetic, good-humored, possibly true, perhaps absurd, tattle.

From Half Moon street to the purlieus of the Plaza is a long way, and the topic which is engrossing the socially elect of two great countries manages to get pretty well diluted in the process. But the question thus raised can be crystallized thus:

"Has Prince George, of Great Britain, succumbed to those famous Vanderbilt eyes?" And the second invariable question, of course, is: "Will the royal English house of Windsor be allied with the illustrious American house of Vanderbilt by the marriage of King George's youngest son and Grace, lovely daughter of the Brigadier-General?"

So far, the rumor is a trifle light as air—or lighter. There have been no announcements—not even a shade of a shadow of an unofficial "Yes" or "No." But you can't keep Society—Mayfair or Park Avenue—from speculating when it "takes its pen in hand" to dash off the latest bit of thrilling surmise to its sub-deb sister. Hence the following chronicle, with only the signatures changed:

Newport, June 5th.

DEAR KITTY:

Thanks for your sweet letter, Dear. I'm so sorry you are anchored in New York during the hot weather, but precisely the same thing happened to me before I "came out." I wish I could take you abroad with me when the Langdons and I sail on the Mauretania, but I'm afraid it's quite out of the question. Mother and Dad would never stand for it, and besides the London season would tire you.

However, to appease your natural indignation, I'll let you in on what promises to be a most delectable secret. I hear that Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, wife of the Brigadier-General, is to invade the city of fogs and festivities, and that she is planning to entertain on a lavish scale—lavish even for her.

You may think me selfish, but it certainly promises well for MY amusement in Great Britain, doesn't it? No more, now, Dear, as I must pack and write other letters. Your affectionate sister,

ANGELA ARDWIN.

Somewhere in the Atlantic.
June 28th.

DEAR KIT:

We're having a capital passage, with no dirty weather.

I ran into Gertrude Benham on the promenade deck, and she tells me that Grace Vanderbilt has gone abroad with her mother. I'm sure you remember Grace—an attractive, modest, slim chit, about twenty-four now, I should think, with the most marvelously expressive eyes that I've ever seen. They are deep blue, with delicate greenish lights in them.

According to Gertrude, Grace is in for a season of entertaining, the like of which is not seen once in three blue moons. Of course, she's awfully young, but still I wonder that she has never married. Can you imagine why? With her charm and her social prestige, not to mention the Vanderbilt millions, it seems odd that she has stayed single—even though she's a "mere babe in arms."

There's the dinner-gong. I must rush. Au 'voir.

ANGELA.

London, July 5th.

MY DEAR KITTY:

Well, it's true. The Vanderbilt entertainments are the talk of the town. I managed to attend one of them, a highly elaborate function, at which (oh, chills and thrills!) the Prince of Wales was present. In spite of its ornateness, the party was a huge success. And talk of brilliant guest lists!

Grace was there, looking stunning. Her eyes are as lovely as they used to be, and I noticed that they cut a wide swathe among the male flappers present. I asked Mrs. Post Wheeler, wife of the American Councillor at the U. S. Embassy, what the latest matrimonial gossip was; but she was strangely silent, and even gave me a mild stare of surprise.

Forgive my haste. We're off to the Grafton Galleries.

A.

London, August 1st.

MY DEAR CHILD:

As this will be my last letter for a long time (we leave for Lausanne tomorrow), I will try to make it "thick."

Mayfair is bubbling with gossip, centering, as you may imagine, on the great question, now discussed by everyone who is anyone: "Is Prince George falling for Gracie Vanderbilt?" I can tell you nothing definite, but it is rumored that the handsome youth's interest was aroused at a jolly party, sponsored by the Duke of Marlborough.

The Duke's youngest son, Grace's own third cousin, Lord Ivor Charles Spencer Churchill, danced attendance on her. But he was quite outdone, I hear, by Prince George.

Gracie swears that this is all bosh—that her intimacy with Princess Mary is responsible for the rumor. But, well—I don't know. We saw the three of them cantering in Hyde Park, and the Prince didn't look exactly b-o-r-e-d.

I think it would really be a good match. The Prince is 22, and good looking and snappy. And Grace has the "background." The present Countess Laszlo Szechenyi is her aunt. Another is Mrs. Ogden Goelet. Still another is Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney. The blueness of blood like that should satisfy the most cantankerous critic of international weddings.

As for the Prince, whom they call "the royal sailor boy," he's quite the most attractive lad in London. A lieutenant on the "Iron Duke," Lord Jellicoe's old ship, he makes a striking figure. And he's so affable.

How will it end, I wonder?

Hastily, but affectionately,

ANGELA.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

MOTHERS and fathers all over the country are complaining about how long it takes sweethearts to say "Good night" to each other.

THEY start their farewells at ten o'clock and at midnight they're still parting.

ONE guy used to call on his girl two hours earlier so that he'd have longer to say "Good bye" to her.

OF course he was smart. As soon as he got inside the house he began telling her that he had to go.

HE generally arrived at seven, started leaving at quarter after and by two a. m. he was unable to go.

ONE guy always stood out on the front porch with his sweetheart and he leaned up against the door bell so much that in the six months he kept company with her he ran down twenty-seven batteries.

THE doorbell had the same kind of ring as the telephone and this kept the girl's father arguing with central all night.

HER old man finally had to have the phone taken out before he could get any sleep.

THIS fellow wouldn't say "Good night" without leaning on the bell. It's a lucky thing they didn't do their parting near a fire alarm box.

HE'D have had the hook and ladder running out of the garage every ten minutes.

NOT only that but he'd be liable to get excited and turn in a general alarm.

COUNT YOUR MANY BLESSINGS.

Why so moody?

Why allow yourself to change so constantly from grave to gay—from joy to sadness?

You find yourself more and more subject to spells, where it seems that the world has gone wrong and, particularly in your case, misfortune seems to pursue.

Shake yourself loose from these thoughts.

Each time you indulge such thoughts it become harder to get rid of them.

Count your blessings—you have as many as the next one if you would spend a little more time in counting them.

The weather may be depressing, there may be scores of others in line ahead of you, you cannot get time to play your favorite game, some little tot has to be amused, and all these things interfere with your plans.

Do you know that blessings are often wrapped up in dull and uninteresting exteriors.

Make it your game to find the blessing and cut out the "blues."
